Japan Seemingly Wants to Take Possession.

BLOUNT IS ON THE SCENE.

to the Government.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—If the revenue cutter Rush, on her trip from San Francisco to Honolulu, made an ordinary rate of speed, Mr. Blount, President Cleveland's special Islands, and his investigation into the conipon the islands in case the United States should conclude not to take possession or ontrol of them made but little impression ever upon the subject. In the absence of any communication from his government or from the Japanese consul at Honolulu, any expression of opinion upon the probabilities of the situation respecting Japan and Hawaii was withheld by the minister.

A member of the diplomatic corps, who has spent some time both in Tokio and Honolulu, said that in his opinion any assumption of authority in Hawaii by the Japanese government was most improbable. Although the Japanese are now the second largest element of population on the islands, being surpassed only by the native Hawaiians, they having no permanent interests there.

They go in large bodies under contract as laborers on the rice and sugar plantations, and have never had the right of citizenship. The government of Japan, he said, is interested only so far as the otection of subjects is concerned, and t certainly does not want to undertake the management of that territory.

The story brought by the Alliance said that the officers of the Japanese warship in the harbor of Honolulu seemed to be acting under the influence and advice of British representatives there. This much of the tale corroborative of the statements contained in a letter from a member of the provisional government to one of the annexation commissioners in Wash-

That official wrote that since Mr. Wodehouse, the British commissioner, had sent his formal note of recognition to the provisional government as the de facto government, he had avoided any intercourse or communication with the members. And up to the time the letter was written the officers of the Japanese war ship, who were in constant association with the British officials, had failed to pay the ordinary and customary visit of courtesy to the members of the government.

Their new house, with its modern im provements, is also of very fine architecture. As you enter by the front door you pass through a vestibule, which is built into the reception room, and on the right of the reception room is the parlor, which is connected by a sliding door. On the left is the dinning room, which is open, so all three rooms make one large one; just right for house warmings. Opposite the vestibule door are the front stairs, and in a corner the open fireplace.

Bold Attempt by Robbers to Wreck a Passenger Train.

THE ENGINEER WARNED

By a Burned Handkerchief That a Rail Was Gone.

PORTLAND, Or., April 1.-An attempt was made to wreck the northbound passenger train on the Southern Pacific road. About 9 o'clock George E. Richardson, a aborer, started from Drain to Roseburg on foot. At the end of a trestle a short distance from Drain he found a rail taken from the track. While he was considering what he should do five men appeared on the trestle and one of them attacked him, beating and cutting him severely. Another struck him on the head with a revolver, cutting his head and knocking him

Then they pushed him off the bridge, 25 feet below, where he lay unconscious for over an hour. He crawled out of the gulch, made his way slowly down the track and met the overland train at 1:26 o'clock in the morning. Setting fire to his handkerchief, he waved it as a signal, and the train stopped.

The trainmen picked up Richardson in a very exhausted condition. He told his story, and they went ahead and found the rail gone. Had the train been wrecked at that point the result would have been disastrous. The passengers made up a purse

Many believe the wreckers' purpose was not robbery, but revenge on the railroad company for the discharge of white section hands and the employing of Japanese.

QUIETLY IN PROGRESS.

Investigation of the Behring Sea Arbitration Commission.

WASHINGTON, April 1.-It is stated on good authority that an investigation of the expenditures of the Behring sea arbi tration commission is quietly in progress It is charged that some of the allowance made to members are extravagant, and should be discontinued. The allowances were made by John W. Foster, while he was secretary of state. According to statements it appears that nearly everybody connected officially with the commission, has been given a very liberal allowance, which the officials of this administration concludes under the head of useless extravagance. Not only is Major Halford, the disbursing officer of the commision, receiving in addition to his regular salary as an army officer, $15 a day and commutation for rations, quarters and mileage, but it is also said that Secretary Foster set aside a fee of $10,000 for himself for his services as agent for the United States. The reports for these expenditures have been the talk of the officials in the de-partments. Secretary Gresham, however, was not inclined to say anything about the matter for publication.

TREASURE FOUND.

What the Chest of a New Jersey Fortune Teller Disclosed.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The treasure chest of Mme. Charlotte Roules Rovier Charlier, the fortune teller, who died at Roselle, N. J., has been opened. The belt which was worn by Mme. Charlier when she made her incantations was found. It was vered with strange symbols.

In the buckle were 26 diamonds. Costly Brussels lace, antique gold, silverware, diamonds, rubies and pearls, gold lockets, bracelets and earrings, half a dozen diamond rings, several amethyst and turqois rings, rich silks, silk handerchiefs, costly shawls, gold, pearl and ivory pencils, two gold watches, rare Roman Catholic medals and rosaries went to make up the valuable collection found in the box.

Found Dead In His Bed. NEW YORK, April 1.—James F. Morsell was 67 years old, and an old New Yorker. Up until a few years ago, when he was stricken with paralysis, and lost the use of his limbs, he was well known about town. He was a childless widower.

Reduction In Pension Fees.

WASHINGTON, April 1.-Assistant Secretary Bussey of the interior department has rendered a decision holding that in claims under the act of June 27, 1890, for increase of pension, on the ground of new disabilities, the attorney's fee shall not exceed $2 thus overruling the commissioner of pensions, who had allowed a $10 fee. CHICAGO, April 1.—Peter Mesher reprepertain residents of the village, who allege girl at the same college. that they are being detained against their will, and are not being treated well.

Magistrate Porter of Hyde Park says he vill soon begin suit in the United States court here on behalf of certain Esquimaux amilies, asking heavy damages from the company that brought them to this

He states that the whole trouble grows out of the refusal of certain of the Esquimaux to wear their heavy sealskin clothing on warm days. He alleges that Mr. Daniel, the superintendent of the village, has kept several Esquimaux prisoners in their huts for weeks, because they would not wear furs. One Esquimaux is down with the measles, and Mr. Porter ascribes the sickness to confinement in a stuffy hut. He also says the Esquimaux Village company has a contract with these people, made on foreign waters, and that it is therefore illegal.

The contract is one for common labor, and provides that for the entire three years that the Esquimaux are under con-tract, each head of the family is to receive $100 in cash and $100 in supplies. Mr. Daniels denies the stories of ill treatment, and says none of his charges have been locked up. But on this latter oint Mr. Porter is confirmed by Colonel Rice of the Columbian Guards.

Gossip Concerning Boston and Maine and Concord. CONCORD, N. H., April 1.-In relation to the rumor that negotiations are pending between the Boston and Maine and Concord railroads, and that the public may possibly learn something about this after the adjournment of the legislature, a reporter had some conversation with Hon.

A. W. Sulloway of Franklin Falls, a member of the Boston and Maine directory, who said: "I suppose we cannot keep people from talking about those things which they think ought to be done. People generally believe that it would be better for the in terest of these two corporations as well as of the public at large to have a closer union brought about between these two great systems. What the public expect will be done will I believe be accomplished in the future, but how soon, no one can ay at present.

the Loss of Ten Lives. SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 3 .- One of the most distressing disasters that ever occurred in the anthracite region followed the explosion of a lamp in the hands of a Hungarian employed in the Neilson colliery near here. The colliery which is operated by J. Langdon & Co., is one of the largest and best known in the region, paying superior wages and furnishing work to its employes the year around. Being a holiday, there were not so many men at work as usual. Others for the same reason, were late in reaching the mine, and it is owing to these fortunate facts that the death list is not much larger.

An Aged Vermont Farmer Who Claims to Have Committed Murder.

BENNINGTON, Vt., April 3.-Henry Bishop, a farmer living on West mountain, was brought to this village yesterday, and, after an examination by physicians, who pronounced him insane, was committed to the county jail. He claimed to the neighbors who brought him in that he had murdered his wife and five children, and wanted them to go and bury them. When found by those who went for him he had a loaded gun and an axe, and had he not been persuaded to come to the village would have murdered them all.

Nest, the beautiful summer home of Joe have been burned over. Nest, the beautiful summer home of Joe Jefferson, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon, and the body of Helen McGrath, the family cook, lies buried in the ruins. She was assisted out of doors, covered with buffalo robes, and carried to the Over 100 Lives Reported Lost by the house of Station Agent Bassett. The children, who were in the attic playing, were the first to escape and seek a place of safety.

Mrs. Simmonds, housekeeper, Lizzie Collins, maid, and Helen McGrath, cook, were in the cellar at noon when Mrs. Mc-Grath discovered what she supposed was water running on the floor. She called the hired man, Robert Wright, who made the alarming discovery that the pipe leading to the gasoline tank had burst and the cel-lar was being flooded with that dreadful explosive.

Realizing the Danger, he immediately called to the women to flee for their lives, but they stood horror-stricken. Almost immediately the oil came in contact with the fire in the fur nace. Instantly there was an explosion and the room was filled with flames.

Wright caught hold of Mrs. Simmond and Miss Collins and with great difficulty fought her way to the door. FOR A THIRD TERM

Agitation Under Way Looking to Cleveland's Renomination.

TWO THEORIES ADVANCED.

The Idea Scouted by the President's Friends.

WASHINGTON, April 4 .- It will be just one month today since President Cleveland was inaugurated. Already newspapers in different parts of the country are beginning the agitation of his renomination for a third term in 1896. The politicians here are somewhat puzzled as to the meaning of this early movement in presidential is that those who favor a renomination script.

Have Some Ulterior Purpose, principally to carry favor with the administration. Those who take an opposite view, and are not disposed to fall into line at this early day, are generally regarded as disappointed at the prospects of getting any recognition, and are generally opposed to the president's methods of dis pensing the patronage. If the agitation accomplishes nothing else, it gives the ewspapers in certain localities something to write about.

Those who claim to know the president's views on this and other topics assert that he has has not thought of looking so far ahead. His purpose is to make his admin-istration a success, if possible, by elevating the public service above the manipulation of politics and placing it in the hands of the better element. The president's friends regard him as the most distinctive president of the people who has ever occupied the executive chair. They do not believe that he has any idea of again asking the suffrages of his fellow citizens; but he does wish to perpetuate the Democrats in power upon lines which will receive the Indorsement of the People. President Cleveland's personal friends make the broad statement that he was no satisfied with the manner in which he wa defeated in 1888. Hence his determination was to secure the nomination again and make the contest mainly on the very is sues upon which he and the Democratic party were defeated four years before. His election was a complete vindication of his first administration and the policy which governed it.

Having accomplished this his friends assert that he has realized the limit of his bition, and is now only desirious of anding the party down to his successor when the time arrives with an unbroken front. Therefore this talk of a renomina tion is not only distasteful to the president, but also to his friends, and the meaning of Councilman Federhen moved to substitute the minority report for the majority, Vestrymen,-Zenas S. Arnold, F. Now was the Johnson, Owen, Robbins, Shackley, Sher Delegates to Diocesan Convention,- time to crush such business. The final Zenas S. Arnold, W. W. Osborne and action did not depend upon the Council. He also said he desired to say that the statement made by him at the last meeting that Councilman Moxon had requested The third division of the Chapel ex-Councilman Gray to present an order Builders of the Congregational church gave for the payment for his plans was not so.

Councilman Anderson said in regard to which was very largely attended so much a public hearing that there seemed no so that many who desired to attend were occasion for holding the hearing in the iams. -8. Council chamber and anyone could have come in to the hearing that desired.

Councilman Sherman, the gentleman from Ward Two instead of asking the Council to investigate, read his resolution and then went on to prosecute them. There was no question in his mind but what it was offered with reluctance and as he (Federhen) grows old it will always be a source of regret to him that he tried to harpen his political spurs at the expense of a man like Councilman Moxon.

Councilman Robbins thought that Councilman Adams had stated the matter in a clear way. It was true no member should place himself in a position for personal gain. The real question raised at the hearing was that the money had not been properly considered. The city has no need to defend itself against Councilman Moxon for everything had been done in broad daylight. There has been no charge of crime. There has never been a suspicion that there was something in the man that was wrong; there is nothing in his record to make people think so. He is perfectly honest; his character has never had a taint thrown upon it. The testimony of the ex-Councilman was that when they voted for $30,000 they believed they covered the Committee on Licenses. James H. plans. He had no reason to feel that any member who signed that report did not fice as the Councilman who made the ninority report.

Councilman Holbrook. This is a delicate juestion and there is no use settling it inless it is settled right. If a Council man accepts pay when the law says that it shall be punishable, it is wrong. $600 for School Plans

TO COUNCILMAN OF LAST YEAR.

Didn't Fall Into Line.

The majority and minority reports of the special investigation committee of the City Council, are given in full below without comment. The Council voted not to substitute the minority, 7 yeas, and 13 nays. The majority report was accepted 12 to 8.

MAJORITY REPORT. The undersigned, a majority of the committee appointed at the last meeting of the Council to investigate the payment to Mr. Stephen O. Moxon of Ward Six of the sum of $600 in settlement for plans and specfications furnished for construction of the Lincoln schoolhouse, beg leave to report that a hearing was given to the parties interested on Friday evening, March 31, at

The facts of the case may be briefly recapitulated as follows:

During the year 1891, an appropriation for a schoolhouse in Ward Three, of which $2,754.50 was expended for land and $660 was paid to Loring & Phipps for plans, which were found upon calling for bids, to provide for a building which the City Council deemed too expensive to erect. These plans were accordingly thrown aside. Other plans were afterwards submitted, with the understanding that they were to be paid for only if used, which were als considered to call for too costly a structure and were therefore abandoned.

ic Buildings, of which ex-Councilmen H. Walter Gray and W. H. Warner were also members, stated that he could and would submit plans and specifications for a school building which could be built for between $27,000 and $28,000, and also stated to several members of the Council that he was willing to stake

The plans and specifications were subitted, approved by the School Committee, and the Council passed an order appropriating $30,000 for the construction of the schoolhouse in accordance with the plans and specifications thus provided. The building was completed for $24,782.79, to which must be added an expenditure of $2,499.97 for a sidewalk and furnishing of the school, making the total cost $27,281.76, or $2,718.24 within the appropriation, from which sundry transfers were made to other appropriations, leaving an unexpended balance, December 31, 1892, of $1,673.24. In accordance with a request of Mr. Ewell, Commissioner of Public Works, made some time in December, 1892, a bill of $600, or say 2 1-2 per cent. for the plans, dated December 30, 1892, was rendered by to is substantially this: if any member of a City Council is interested in a contract in City Council or by authority derived therefrom, he shall be punished by fine or imprisonment.

In the first place, was this a contract? In my opinion there is no doubt but what it was. Because in the case of individuals, 1.50 if a man furnishes plans for another who uses them, a contractual relation immediately arises, express or implied as the case may be, and the only remedy which one who furnishes the plans has in case of non-payment, is an action of contract.

Is the city interested in this contract? Unquestionablo; because it is one of the parties to the contract. Is it a contract made by the City Councilor by authority derived therefrom? It certainly is made by authority derived from McDowell, Robert McDowell, William the City Council, because it is founded upon the order of the City Council which appropriated the money for its payment, and which order is the only ground of its existence. .

I cannot agree with the opinion, that because the etatute does not say in exact language that such a contract is illegal, but provides simply for a criminal punishment, that there is any ground for saying that the contract itself is legal, but that the member of the Council interested may be punished. Such an interpretation in my opinion, would involve a most glaring nconsistency. You might then have the spectacle of the member being tried in a Criminal Court and found guilty, and at the same time a civil court enforcing the same contract against the city for which the member, who is trying to enforce it, has just been found guilty in a criminal court.

The fact that the statute punishes a member of a Council who is interested in such a contract, clearly conveys to my mind the idea that the statutes makes such a contract illegal and not binding upon the city. To cite an illustration: Take the case when a State prohibits the sale of The "County School" will hold forth intoxicating liquor and provides a penalty again by the courts of such States, that a claim for liquor sold in such a State in Fast day will be observed as a holiday at violation of the statute was illegal and contract which is not specifically declared The second annual ball of Quincy Court, illegal, but the courts say that they will not enforce a contract in favor of one who has violated the law; in other words, they will not aid offenders in breaking the laws which they are bound to enforce. I cannot agree with other members of the committee who say that if we find there Saville & Jones, is confined to his home statute referred to, we thereby make the Councilman a criminal. It seems to me The annual meeting of the Quincy that their views are based upon a superfi. purpose of the occasion was made know Mutual Fire Insurance Company will be cial and mistaken view both of the constitution of the United States and of this hostess of the evening was to be the surcriminal except when tried by a court of was the startled recipient herself of a fine competent jurisdiction, upon complaint, ice cream set. indictment or information, and adjudged Bussells photographic studio will be open guilty after a fair and impartial trial, ac- joyable participated in by members of the morrow, Fast day. Garment Cutters Charge Manufacturers With Conspiracy.

On the Rights of Both Capital and Labor.

NEW YORK, April 5.- The conflict be ween the clothing manufacturers and the locked out garment cutters has assumed a new phase. Heretofore the manufacturers have been the aggressors. The cutters, however, have planned a flank movemen Twelve cutters have been singled out to go before the grand jury and lay an informa tion against the 52 firms of the Manufacturers' association, for what they claim to be a conspiracy.

The grounds upon which this charge is pased are that the manufacturers locked out their employes, and that they had bound themselves under penalty of for-feiting $2500 to the association to do so. This is claimed to be a conspiracy against

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

Judge White Delivers a Discourse on the Rights of Each.

PITTSBURG, April 5. - H. R. Barnes William and Joseph Carr, members of the Builder's Exchange, have been found guilty of conspiracy in the case brought against them by Thomas Buchanan. L. T. Goder was discharged. Judge White in giving his decision, said:

The Builders' Exchange or Bricklayer union or any other organization that unde takes arbitrarily to say that no man shall come in without their consent, or that no man shall follow a vocation or trade without their consent, is absolute tyranny and against pub-lic policy. All such combinations are un-awful and unjust to society.

There was an act passed on this subject in 872, which was perhaps an improvident piece of legislation and a pandering to an improper sentiment in the country, but under it they cannot coerce other men that want to work cannot coerce other men that want to work and compet them to go out. The act expressly prohibits that. They cannot interfere with others who are willing to work.

Any organization or combination of two or more persons to force up or to force down wages, and to coerce unwillingly laborers to comply with the rules and regulations adopted to accomplish the proposed end, is unlawful. Any organization of two or more persons to obtain a monopoly of any trade or business by refusing to deal with persons not members of the organization, or combination preventing other persons from dealing with them, and by other means attempting to crush out all competition, is unlawful.

A Test Case. Toledo, April 5 .- James Lennon, the Lake Shore engineer who was found guilty of contempt of court, according to Judge Ricks' decision, has, in obedience to the instructions of his attorneys, refused to pay his fine, and has been for mally arrested and is in the custody of the court. His attorneys will appeal to the supreme court of the United States for a writ of habeas corpus.

Boston's Ball Tossers Have All Been Signed For the Season of '93. Boston, April 5.-Boston will have the astest trio that ever chased flies in the outfield this season. This is great news, for, while everybody felt satised that the boys would ultimately si yet there was a feeling that the team work of the nine might be injured by their ab

MERCIER'S ESTIMATE

Of the Benefits Derived by Canad'ans From the United States.

MONTREAL, April 5.-Ex-Premier Mercien of Quebec spoke here on the future of Canada. In the course of his address he said, regarding political union with the United States:

Demolish the political wall which separat as from the United States, destroy the conditions that keep American capital out of ou country, and you would have an inpouring or riches that would surpass the most sanguin expectations. Canadians do not immigrate t the United States, owing to laziness, caprice or want of patriotism. It is necessity that makes them take the road to the United States, where they obtain what they are not able to procure here—work, money, comfort, success and advancement in all careers.

THAT WORCESTER ROBBERY Proves to Have Been Committed by

Young Louis Goulding. WORCESTER, Mass., April 5.-A daring burglary was committed at the house of W. H. Goulding Monday morning. Yes-terday Louis R. Harry was away from home all Sunday night with a few friends.

The safe had been rifled and its contents taken. According to young Goulding's story at the time, $8000 or $10,000 worth of roperty had been stolen. He went down stairs after the burglar Second Reading of Home Rule Bill Moved by Gladstone.

THE RISE AND THE CAUSES

Of the Movement Explained by itself was not crowded, when Mr. Gladreading of the bill to establish home rule in Ireland. Mr. Gladstone said:

I desire to remind the house of the fact that the stage of the home rule bill, at which it has the stage of the home rule bill, at which it has now arrived, may in some important senses be ca."2ed the principal stage. The sense of parliament has already, been declared in this house, and various sections of the country nave also declared their sense in the most decided form. England, which was adverse to home rule in 1886, has largely moved in the direction of qualifying that decision. None of those opposing the bill have, with one exception, either criticized ft strongly or offered.

A SAD AFFAIR. ception, either criticized ft strongly or offered an alternative policy. The exception referred to was made by Leonard Courtney, who seemed to think that the only thing necessary was to reconcile the Roman Catholics in Ire-land. A majority of the Protestants are now opposed to home rule opposed to home rule.

If it took them 90 years to bring them round, it would take 200 years to convert the much larger number of Catholics. Catholics in Ire-land were ostensibly reconciled to the union for the first 29 years after its establishment, because they had no means of making their discontent known. When O'Connell, after triumphing in the civil arena over so great a man as the Duke of Wellington, was put into prison at last, the Era of Physical Force Arrived. My friend, the honorable member for Bod-nin (Mr. Courtney), who recommends patience as the sole hope of the people of Ireland, should know that his principle cannot be ac-ceptable when there is abundant and conclusive evidence that the people will not rest un-til the change for which they have prayed be granted. The arguments against home rule such as advanced at Ulster, do not appeal to umanity; they trample all principle under

All the enemies of home rule want is to get the power in their hands. They have no sympathy with us; they are moved by no sense of justice. Their cry is: "It is quite right that England and Scotland should have an administrative system of their own, and that they have the system of their own. should also enjoy a large measure of self gov ernment. But it must not be so with Ireland. The Irish should not have an administrative The Irish should not have an administrative system with which we can sympathize, but should be forever governed by Dublin castle, while local self government remains practically unknown to them." Their argumen are that the Irish people have no political priciples upon whose sympathies the governme. could reckon, and add whatever power the had given them would Only Be Used to Extort More. There was perfect union of hearts between the Irish Protestants and Catholics during the years from 1782 to 1795. This is no dream; it is years from 1785 to 1785. This is no dream; it is reality. It has happened before; why should it not happen again? Ireland is a small country by the side of a great country, a weak country by the side of a strong one, a poor country by the side of a rich one. It is sometimes claimed that we supply no argument in favor of a change, but we declare that the present method of government in Ireland is incredibly, almost immeasurably, wasteful.

A Mystery No Longer.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Miss Sallie Moore, who mysteriously disappeared from the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. Cornell, 133 West One hundred and ninth street, and about whose disappearance there was so much excitement, has been found. incredibly, almost immeasurably, wasteful, The civil government of Ireland costs twice as much per head as the civil government of England. I prefer that we do justice in a that she intends to sue the father, tranquil spirit, and I call the attention of the honorable members to the spectacle of autonomous unions between states of Europe and America. I will advance four propositions

I said no incorporation union. The honorable gentleman has skipped the essential murderers. word. Incorporation union means that which suppresses legislatures of independent part. I give as the next example, Holland and Belgium, which, after a precarious existence of 5 years, effected a divorce. These countries are now happy and prosperous, simply be-cause they are separate. The next case is that of Austria-Hungary, where the incorporation union has been given up because the country was left to choose between giving it up and total ruin. I contend that unions not incorporated but autonomous have been asked to stay out until the question is setcorporated, but autonomous, have been

United States.

Mr. Gladstone then proceeded to compare at some length the position occupied by Ireland and the British colonies. He read a letter from Mr. Fitzgerald contrasting the prevalence of discontent in all the British colonies, 50 years ago, when he (Fitzgerald) became a colonist with the loyalty and the state of contentedness prevailing now. The letter gives as a cause of the change the introduction of home rule in the colonies. In conclusion the letter says: "Two experiments have been going on before our eyes—one carried on FOR SALE—A White Oak Pony Cart and Russet Leather Harness. Mr. Gladstone continued: During the last 60 years 12 votes of want of onfidence in the government have been given -four by the Irish people, none by the purely British. As to the English-Irish finances, I will not enter into that question; I admit that

It Is Not Easy Work to settle the finances between two countries that have been closely associated for 90 years. In conclusion, let me say that it is an indubitable historical fact that until the year 1832 the question between Great Britain and Ireland | for back wages. was a question between a class and a nation. It is not so now; it is a question between na-

Mr. Gladstone concluded his speech, which was often interrupted by enthusiastic applause, at 5:15. William Hicks-Beach moved a rejection of the bill, at the same time paying a high tribute to the prime minister's powerful tribute to the prime minister's powerful and interesting speech, which he said was not only interesting to his own party but to the house at large. Electricity as a motive power is difficult of control, of tremendous possibilities for calamity and disastrous happening whenever it becomes an ungoverned force, and withal it is as yet very imperfectly understood in all its relations by humanity which employs it.

It would seem that no argument whatever is necessary to establish the desirability of some such provision for the safety and well-being of the public, but only a fair presentation and understanding of the situation it actually exists. This presentation was offered in the most thorough and complete manner by the representative of the steam railroads at the hearing before the legislative committee on street railways in March last, when the situation as above outlined was clearly stated.

As the case now stands the statutes of Massachusetts admit of the granting of a location of a street railway within the limits of a town or city, its cars to be run by electricity, and the railway to cross the tracks of a steam railroad at grade, the authority for such grant being vested in a majority of the board of aldermen or of the selectmen of such city or town. Thus it is entirely competent for two members (the usual majority) of the selectmen of a town to empower the continual crossing at rade of steam railroads under such circumnces, notwithstanding the fact that the men in question may be the owners, ers or interested directors of the allway thus located. Also, under statute they may give notice of a relation to such grant by simply posting a writing to that effect THE NEXT MOT trees or lamp-posts in their NEW AND MY the hearing may be concluded, doctor says and kidneys, granted and operations in and kidneys, granted are way before the sily as tea. Miss Shattuck, while always an enjoyable reader, was at her best last night. She has a most pleasing address and is wonderfully correct in her rendition of the Southern dialect, as was shown in her reading of "Mammy's Lil' Boy." The Lynn Banjo Mandolin and Guitar Club has appeared in Quincy before and last night renewed the good impression which it created at that time. The audience showed their appreciation by recalling the club after each number. The banjo duet by Messrs. Locke and Green was especially good.

He Robbed a Neighbor's House Three Years Ago.

But Police Are Inclined to Discredit That Theory.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 10.-Louis R. Hartley Williams, widow of Judge Williams, at 20 Harvard street, Oct. 8, 1890. The young man has been ill since his confession Tuesday, and has been confined to the house.

The arrest was made by Detective Stone, Goulding, Sr., from Florida Saturday evening. A bail commissioner was sent for and a bond was furnished by the father to insure the son's appearance for examination in the central district court, where he will be bound over to the grand jury. The case is a very peculiar one. Young Goulding is either a thoroughgoing rascal or else he is afflicted with insanity which takes the form of kleptomania. His Father Is Wealthy and he has never lacked for money, yet he has confessed to two burglaries, and is suspected of stealing articles of value from ouses he has visited.

He has told many conflicting stories since Tuesday. He told his father's hostler that in a box secreted in the garret of the house were a number of jewels and other valuable articles. The hostler went to the spot designated, and there found a good sized box, which he handed over to the brother, Harry Goulding. In the box were quantities of gold and silver jewelry set with valuable stones. They included a collection of jewels which the boy claims were purchased by him in his travels abroad, which the police much Louis was shown the jewels, and finally extracted a ring and scarf pin, both of gold and each set with a diamond, which he told the officers were a part of the plunder which he secured from Mrs. Williams' esidence three years ago. This Is but a Portion of the $1000 worth of valuables secured by him at the time. Undoubtedly among the contents of the box are other pieces of property belonging to Mrs. Williams and her daughter, Mrs. Bartlett, wife of Lieutenant C. W. Bartlett of the United States

Louis confessed that he took the key to the Williams house, which was confided to hasty action almost precipitated a riot in Mr. Goulding's hostler as caretaker during hoth houses. It was openly charged that the absence of the family, and ransacked the premises in the daytime. The police inspectors searched the Goulding house, and under the carpet in the boy's room found two packages of noney, each containing about $45, making up the $90 which he claimed was stolen om his clothing on Sunday night. The packages were placed under the carpet, which he had taken up at the sides of the room for the purpose, and then neatly tacked down again.

Most of the property which Louis claimed was stolen from his father's house last Sunday night has now been recovered, excepting some silverware, quite a large amount of which

Has Not Been Accounted For. The police believe that Louis sent it te New York to a wholesale jeweler, and have communicated with the police of that city. It is believed, too, that some of Mrs. Williams' property disappeared through the same channel; that the boy sold it to get more funds.

The family and intimate friends of the oof believe him to be insane. They claim he has no method in his madness beyond a feeling that to secure and secrete valuables is cunning. They say he had no object in securing money; that rather than being prodigal in its use he is inclined to be par-

Assistant Secretary of State.

In a pen picture of Olney, Quincy and Hamlin in the Sunday Globe, was the following concerning our distinguished townsman:

Josiah Quincy works a great deal harder han most men do in Boston. From 9 to 4 are the office hours, but that does not mean that the assistant secretary is through his day's labors at that early hour. Not by a good deal. The clerks can go home then, but the assistant secretary has a mass of correspondence still before him, and other office matters, which, on account of the rush of callers, he has been unable to attend to until the last applicant for a consulship has hied himself homeward and quiet settles down on the department.

It is usually 5 or 6 o'clock before Mr. Quincy puts on his hat and goes to dinner, and after dinner he generally returns to the department and frequently remains there until a late hour. One night this week he was busy with correspondence until 3 o'clock in the morning, but next day he was at his desk at 9 o'clock, looking just as fresh as ever. Mr. Quincy has a wonderful faculty for

It is a wearisome occupation, but brough it all he is as polite and impassive as befits a well-trained diplomat, and never by the slightest word or gesture does he betray the least impatience. One of his suborninates said that he is too considerate; that he allows the office-seekers too much latitude, and permits them to waste his time by telling him a great deal of unnecessary information. But Mr. Quincy does not consider this as time wasted. He wants every man to have a fair chance, and the best opportunity to make out his case. Does Mr. Quincy like this sort of occupation? He can best answer that question himself. He says:

"I never had any great fondness for purely routine work, and if I were to hold my present place for any considerable PERFECT in every detail, The Envoy, length of time I should probably find it a tiresome one, but at the outset of an administration, when everything is new and so many questions have to be settled, the word is very interesting.

Lord Salisbury's House at the Fair. One of the most interesting contributions from England to the Chicago exhibition is to be a reproduction of what is perhaps the finest example in this country of sixteenth century decorative wood carving. On the other hand, it is alleged hat several of the Hekla's passengers say that Captain Thomsen, after parting with the Normandie, had told them of that vessel's offer to take off his passengers. Our Feathered Gamins. "Och, Mike, would ye luk! Here's a pie indade!" said a workingman engaged in shoveling away the snow about a big building in coarse of erection. His shovel had laid low an enormous snowdrift where the wind had swirled fiercely about a corner, and in the bottom of it were the frozen bodies of 20 or 30 English sparrows. It was a pie indeed, and there were many such baked last winter. Millions of the fierce little birds perished from the stress of winter, and it will take years of breeding to bring back the cheerful army, the feathered gamins of our streets and the brightest little soldiers among us, for, when all's said and done, one cannot help liking the sparrow for his courage and his infinite cheerfulness under adverse circumstances. Poor Paderewski. Paderewski's manager has come to the pianist's assistance to keep the girls away. The persistency with which they insist upon waylaying the pianist in town and out of town, in the wings on his way from the stage to his dressing room, has led to the omission from the programme of the Paderewski recitals a ist of the pianist's future engagements, with the times and places of his appearances. The Prisoner Sought Seclusion Of all the ludicrous things which are told of the condition of the discipline in the Massachusetts state prison, that story of the convict Booth, who, having appointed himself chairman of a committee to select a testimonial to the retiring warden, coolly picked out headquarters and hung up a sign, "No Admittance," which was duly respected by the prison guards, is the most amazing. A rich joke leaked out this week on three boys. They are Pic Cross, Billy Byrnes and D. Webster McCarthy. A woman was at the bottom of it all. Not long ago she was visiting friends across he had cut. the river. She was an attractive Kentucky girl and had much company. As the throne of Allah, and hostilities were at s here for a good time she treated all the boys graciously and of course expected attention in return. Each thought he was her favorite suitor, and as a conrequence was lavish in his attention to her. All of the boys know each other, but none knew of the other's predilection for the girl. When the time came for her to go home, she bade them adieu and said that she would go in a day or two.

Each of the boys asked the girl if he could call on her. She said yes and fixed the evening when she would be at her home in the interior of this state. Each went there thinking that he had a cinch on her. One of them rode in a sleeper, the second in a day coach and the third in the smoker. It was about midnight when they arrived at the place. and they went to bed at different hotels. The next morning three buggies were strung along the road en route to the girl's house. It was a snowy, cold day, and they all got left. The girl concluded to remain over a week longer and viever thought that the boys would come. When they came to the house one by one and found that the girl hail not yet got home, they-swore. They all came home together. The trip cos t them $20 each. They tried to keep the fuffair quiet, and they have succeeded so far .- Cincinnati Enquirer.

A GENERAL FIGHT FOLLOWS.

Four Thousand People Gaze on a Lively Battle.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 10.-There was almost a riot on Bloomingdale road yesterday afternoon, resulting from a religious feud which exists among the Arabian and Greek residents of that locality.

It is difficult to understand just the pause of the quarrel, but it was enough to attract a crowd of over 4000 people, who looked on until the police arrived and brought 17 of the combatants to the police station. The patrol wagon was not large enough to hold the load of prisoners, and those who could not be carried were handcuffed together and walked behind the wagon. They attracted a great and curious crowd, and for a time there was consider-

Since the celebration of a week ago Sunday it is said that Jacobs paid a visit to the Arabian quarters on Bloomingdale road and was badly used. The Arabs occupy an old brick house there, a place which during and since the war has been the most notorious house in this vicinity.

It has always been known as the Brick house. The Asiatics were crowded together in the rooms of this house and were prepared to make merry. It was to this place that Jacobs and about 25 of his friends were bidden, and with joy and fervor they began their pilgrimage from their own quarters in the valley to Dungaryen hill. Jacobs was nettled somewhat by the treatment he had been subjected to on his last visit, and it is said went prepared yes

The arrival of the Russian cruiser has settled one important fact, viz., to what pation will be extended the honor of leading the naval review fleet. Spain claimed it, as Columbus first raised the Spanish flag in America; Italy, because he was a native of Genoa, and England by virtue of Admiral Hopkins' rank.

The navy department decided to settle the question by priority of arrival. First come, first served, it said. This, therefore, places the Russian fleet in the van of the great parade, an honor that will be as pleasing to Americans as to our powerful ally on the shores of the Baltic. The downcast profile was clear cut wo of six-inch guns, and two firing tubes and firm, arguing powerful individuality in its owner, and yet the mania had seized him, as it had seized many a weaker man, and he had staked his all and lost over the gaming tables at Monte

The moonlight touched his bowed head softly, silvered the outlines of his figure, revealed his haggard whiteness. It fell on something else—something that glittered in his hands like steel.

"Stop! Don't do that!" It was a woman's voice that spoke, a woman's touch that rested lightly on his sleeve, a woman's great dusky eyes, set in a face such as one sees but seldom in a lifetime, which were raised to his. She had strolled from her party to enjoy alone the beauty of the evening, and absorbed in meditation had wandered farther than she knew. The man's arm dropped to his side

He looked at her in silence, wondering, admiring, perhaps a little ashamed. "Why did you want to do it?" pursued the gentle voice. "Does life seem so evil a thing to you?"

"I have been a fool-a madman! I am ruined! I wish to God I had never seen this cursed place.'

"But you are a man. You can work. You can regain all that you have lost." He shook his head.

"I cannot find employment here, and I haven't the means to get away. I have had the viatique already, and I went back to the tables thinking to have one more bid for fortune and lost. The authorities will not help me twice."

Her hand slipped into her pocket and out again. Adroitly she drew the pistol away from him and pressed something

For an instant she returned his gaze, questioning, perplexed; then there was a flash of recognition, and he saw she knew. "Will you take me into the conservatory, Mr. Landeck? It is so warm here.'

They left the ballroom and strolled under the domed glass where the palms and lilies grew. "You have not forgotten, then?" It was his voice, low and tremulous, which broke the silence. "No: nor you, it seems. "There are moments in a man's life which he never forgets. That was one wondered whether we should ever meet again, but I dared not indulge a hope until this evening, when for the first

-"you have not married?"

"No, as you see. But it is probable that I shall lose my freedom soon."

"Does that mean you are engaged?" "It means that Lord Hythe proposed to me by letter this morning, and that I am to give him his answer tonight." "And is it to be 'yes?"

"Do you know that is a very strange question to put on so short an acquaintance and that our conversation is becoming unusual in the extreme? Mr. Landeck, you seem to forget that we were introduced only half an hour ago!" "You were present at the most solemn moment of my existence. Let me a lit-

An uncontrollable impulse moved the woman to dash aside the barrier of conventionality and give expression to what she felt. She raised her eyes to his. They met, and the anguish in them touched him to the heart. She shook her head merely, then turned her face away. "Then tell me why you are going to marry him." "Because he is rich, and my father's property is mortgaged. I may as well . tell you the reason; everybody will know.

"You intend to sacrifice yourself for your family's sake." "Sacrifice! What an ugly way of put ting it! I am going to make a 'marriage of convenience.' Other women are doing the same thing every day." There was silence, save for the drip ping of the water among the ferns and grasses in the rockery and the subdued sound of distant music.

They were alone. In the dim, religious light of the richly colored lamps the man was blind to all but the white clad form against the mass of foliage. The heavy perfume of the exotics seemed to rise and stifle him; the woman's beauty intoxicated his senses; the consciousness of her presence thrilled his very soul.

He leaned over her and touched her gently on the arm.

"Sylvia, we are scarcely more than strangers, you and I. Perhaps you'll tell me I am mad. But I love you-heaven knows I love you. I believe I loved you -then. Sylvia, will you-oh, for pity's sake take me instead of him!"

"A most romantic affair," said the so ciety papers when they were married. "He proposed to her the first time they met."-Buffalo News.

Mr. Carlisle's Favorite Recreation. While Mr. Carlisle is a great brain worker and has capacity to get through a large amount of mental labor which is exhausting as well to the physical body, yet he is fond of pleasure and recreation. His chief recreation is a small game of draw poker-a sort of family game-at his residence, one or two evenings during

The fives and deuces seem to have great fondness for his hand. One rarely deals without giving him a deuce or a five, and he never fails to call the attention of the players to the fact with the exclamation: "Here's that deuce" or "Here's that five again. I get it every time." But all the same he enters into the spirit of the game with as much earnestness as he does in solving a great question in political economy, and from these poker party meetings he derives a great deal of keen enjoyment and much needed recreation.-Louisville Courier-

Curious Trades of Parisians.

M. Rossignol, the well known Parisian police officer, has compiled a list of some of the extraordinary "trades" exercised in Paris, of which the following is a selection: Ratters, who capture living rats and sell them to exhibitors of curious beasts; collectors, who gather sewer grease and seize the corks and stoppers of them. Do you know I have often at the Suresnes sewer grating; stampers, who beg bread crusts, which they sell again; ant egg collectors, who take their gatherings on Sundays to the bird markets; bird "professors," who offer their services at that market as trainers of blackbirds, canaries and parrots; "sen- from our works on Liberty Street, South ators," who are none other than the commissionaires of the flower market. and merchants for the sale of night shelter numbers, who stand in a line and resell their tickets to their more fortunate brethren.-Pall Mall Budget.

The pit is worked in sections, one seam being above the other. The fire, resulting from the explosion, broke out in the eastern section. From this section 70 men succeeded in reaching the surface through the main dip working. They had a terrible struggle to get out, forcing their way through fire and smoke. The party got as far as the landing at the seam where the fire started, but were driven back by dense smoke. The surveyor took his men back to the surface.

After a half hour's rest they went down again and forced their way 10 yards into the workings. They found four dead bodies, which they brought back with them. Attempts to go further into the workings were vain, as the woodwork was urning, and large masses of ruins were alling incessantly from the roof. One of the rescue party who ventured too far was killed.

The men who saved themselves are unable to give any clear account of the distribution of the miners in the mine. Hand grenades, barrels of water and pipes attached to fire engines on the surface were used to extinguish the flames in the mine. In two sections of the mine the fire was put out. The extinction of the flames was followed in each case, however, by the accumulation of gas. Another at-

At midnight the fire was again burning in all section of the mine near the shaft. The service pipe, which was used to pour water into the mine, has burst. The difficulties in the way of quenching the fire have increased greatly and the rescue of men below is regarded as hopeless.

WASHINGTON, April 12.-Secretary Morton, speaking of criticisms of him for the removal of Robert G. Blaine from the position of chief of the quarantine division of the bureau of animal industry, said that when he took charge of the division of agriculture he forgot Mr. Blaine occupying a position with practically no duties to perform and drawing a salary for $2000 per annum. It was one of the most evident sinecures in the department and he could not consistently allow it to remain even though the incumbent happened to be the brother of the late James G. Blaine.

General Grant Remembered.

WASHINGTON, April 12.-Many citizens of New York are of the opinion that it would be a fitting tribute to the memory of General Grant to have the ships participating in the naval review in the Hudson river fire a salute over the old hero's grave in Riverside park. Their views have been communicated to Secretary Herbert, but he finds that it will not be practicable to comply with their wishes, as the column of the fleet does not extend as far up the river as the park. He will, however, have the Philadelphia, after the review is over, proceed up the river and fire a salute of 21 guns over the old commander's grave.

Washington, April 12.—The agricul-tural department has been overwhelmed with requests from southern planters for Egyptian cotton seed. Its supply was exhausted some time ago. It is not known at the department whether the effort to raise this cotton here will be a success. Great quantities of Peruvian cotton are imported, but it is all consigned to wool and not cotton factories, being used in adulterating woolen goods.

Caken by Germany to Prevent the Spread of Cholera. BERLIN, April 12.-According to a mem ber of the imperial sanitary council the German government has established a central station for all emigrants from Russia and Austria as well as Germany at Rubleben, near Spandau, as a prevention of introducing cholera into the United States from Germany. The German steamship lines have offices there and are bound to receive as passengers only such emigrants who are passed by the government physicians as perfectly sound and healthy. The member of the imperial health council said: "We have been informed of late that the agents of several foreign steamship lines are working the different railways from Russia, Scandinavia and the eastern provinces of Prussia and Austria, touching the Russian frontier, for the purpose of persuading immigrants from these parts to take through trains to Berlin, where they would not be bothered Mr. Taylor's friends have recovered from the shock of Saturday's vote and have sicians. Eckhold was formerly proprietor of this hostelry and says he also belonged to the band and withdrew sooner than obey his fellow anarchists. He claims that the charge of arson against him is made to get him out of the way.

The authorities expect to make several arrests upon the information furnished. Eckhold says the bombs were made of pieces of iron pipe and were capped and fused ready to be fired. About 40 hands

Police Officer Richard D. Smart, who has for several years been teacher of drawing in the public schools at a salary While this courtship was going on it was understood that Colonel Pavey had a wife somewhere in Massachusetts or Connecticut, as well as several children. These stories were so vague, however, that little heed was paid to them, and the courtship went on swimmingly. In December it was reported that the couple were to be married on Christmas, but for me reason the wedding was postponed. All this time stories continued to float about of an undivorced wife in Connectiriage, which occurred on Easter Sunday. Colonel Pavey selected one of the most ashionable churches in the city, old St. John's Episcopal, for the ceremony, and for weeks the coming wedding was the talk of the town.

On Easter Sunday afternoon the church was crowded, so much interest had beer aroused. Colonel Pavey, to give special eclat to the wedding, had prevailed upon Mayor Laskey

HOW I DIED.

I was very sick. I had laid for days that seemed years upon the rack of such pain as only strong men, suddenly broken apon the wheel, may know. Every bone my bo. . every nerve, every minute gland of corporeal tissues had been like lectric wires and cells surcharged with ethereal agony. At last there had come a benumbed feeling that thrilled like the vibration of harp strings suddenly stilled. could hear the hum of voices like the far off drone of bees, and the sound seemed soothing me into a strange peace.

I was aware that somebody passed a light before my eyes, and after repeating night lamp on the stand without the shade. I knew also that somebody stepped to the window and threw it wide open, while a voice, seemingly borne beyond the confines of space and gathering force as it approached the boundaries of auricular demonstration until it boomed like New England, however, will send on a the deep bass of the sea, uttered these responded the doctor, bringing the light he carried nearer the face that lay upon the marble slab, where the ice drops were forming, crystal by crystal, like the beads one threads upon a growing strand.

"Why, the flush we both have noticed since we stood here. I knew by the intent gaze you bestowed upon what generally demands but a passing glance that you discovered it when I did, and I demand that the body be removed to the ward until we investigate the case." "That flush is only the reflection of

"You shall do nothing of the sort," replied the doctor, placing his hand as he spoke upon the outstretched arm of the nurse with compelling force. "You have made a fool of yourself over this fellow from the first. Not a hanger on in the ward but what noticed your interest in his handsome face. You are bound to me by ties you cannot break, and rather than see you under the enchantment of this fellow again I simply will smother the feeble pulse of life that lingers in his veins and make a surety of his death."

"You may be a villain, but you are not a coward, Dr. Ware," replied the woman, whose hand he still held. "To refuse to give this man the chance to live would be the most despicable act of your life, and, so help me God, I will denounce you as a murderer before the first justice I can find if you do not instantly summon assistance and remove this body from this place."

"Not so fast, my dear. Every moment's delay extinguishes more and more the chance for life, and if the attendants we shall summon find a dead man on the slab who will believe your hysterical story in the face of my statement that no sign of life existed? Women nurses are not in favor just at present with the board; they are too sensational, too emotional, too indiscreet. Your bravado will eventuate only in your own dis-

With the bound of a cat, the nurse, while he was yet speaking, broke from the doctor's detaining hold and reached the door. Quick as thought she opened it and flew down the long corridor.

Within was found a dozen bags of dynanite, each about eight inches long and an inch in thickness. They were cyndrical in shape and the covering looked to be linen cloth oiled and smeared with some yellow substance.

A Town In Pawn.

It may not be generally known that the little seaport town of Wismar, in the Baltic, is virtually in the same position as Montague Tigg's shirt-namely, at the pawnbroker's. It was in 1803 that Sweden pawned the town to the duchy of Mecklenburg for a round sum of money. It wanted a baby and ordering all sound, was then stipulated that the town should able-bodied babies to call at the stage door be restored to Sweden at the end of a of the Fifth Avenue Theatre at noon. century, provided the sum lent, together There was such a flow of babies that the with interest, were paid back to Meck-

This sum is now said to amount to several hundred million marks, and apparently there is little chance of Wismar being able to pay it at the date fixed. "He was the savior of us all." "He was the owner of the soldiers." "He was the man who can shoot

"He discovered this country." "He was the first man in the world." "He was the man who never bragged." "He is the only man in the world who

Three of our most distinguished judges sitting in the court of appeal, have been trying to decide an old question of law. There is a land tax levied on land, and a decision was asked whether this tax could rightly be levied on a hole cut through the land, in which hole a train was accustomed to run. SIXTEEN YEARS OF EUCHRE.

early 20,000 Games, and One Side Only 154 Games Ahead.

Twenty thousand games of euchre! This is the record of the play of the four Chicago gentlemen who have sat every Saturday evening for the past 16 years and engaged in that game which generally marks the initiation of every novice into the never ending mysteries of cards. Daniel Westervelt and C. L. Root have played against Thomas Benton James and James Taylor. They have been urged many times to play whist or casino or pinochle or seven up, but never for one moment have they swerved from their devotion to euchre.

To be absolutely correct, these four euchre players, these two pairs of faithful adherents to the powers of bowers, reached their nineteen thousand six hundred and fiftieth game of euchre Saturday evening, and upon the occasion of the twenty thousandth game each of the players intends arriving at the scene of play smoking a 50-cent cigar. Except on holidays or anniversaries, it is said. they are supremely indifferent to the quality of the tobacco they burn.

Thomas Benton James is a pensioner of the wholesale house of Marshall Field & Co. He was a general salesman for that firm and its predecessors for 26 years, and about two years ago was placed upon the retired list with continued pay for services rendered. He is a sprightly gentleman of mature years, which he places at 69, but which his friends usually speak of as being somewhere under 100. Mr. James' partner | Every vacant wall or boarding which is is James Taylor, a congenial companion with a life record of 70 years. It is said that James Taylor can indicate by a the public taste, and are rather a serious graduated system of pressure upon the addition to the minor evils of life. Mr. Root drove stage between Blue Island and Chicago during the period between 1830 and 1840 and took no stock whatever in the future of Every Saturday night as regularly as the week rolls around these four cronies meet and play euchre. They shift about, like sittings of the supreme court, from one house to another, but they always sit in the same chairs and in the same relative positions. Almost eight years copy of "Cavendish on Whist," for the society.

The four players have become so attached to the simple game of euchre that it is now a part of their very natures, and in the 16 years of their weekly contests only on an occasional case of sickness, to the number of three or four times in all, has canceled the engagement of either player. A complete record of the games is kept to show which side leads from year to year. At present Mr. James and his partner are 154 games ahead of their opponents. At the ten thousandth game they were 192 games in the lead, but have been losing for the last two years. For a period of five years there was no material gain for either

All four of these lifetime euchreists are gentlemen rather simple in their customs, disinclined to adopt the intricacies of whist or the novelty of cinch, and are unwilling to concede that some Saturday night three of their number will meet at the appointed place, light their cigars, get the cards in readiness and wait for one who will never deal the cards again. -Chicago News-Record.

Died Amid Revelry.

While the wealth and fashion of New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington were listening to the Damrosch concert, which marked the opening of the magnificent new Waldorf hotel, one of the girls employed in the new hostelry fell down the elevator shaft from the leventh story and was instantly killed.

The girl was Katie McInearny. She was 23 years old. She went up in one of the rear elevators, intending to go to the wardrobe room on the eleventh floor.

As she started to leave the car her dress caught in the gate. The elevator boy, Richard Cliff, said: 'Wait a moment now, and I'll get it

He pulled the rope, expecting that by raising the elevator a few inches the dress would be released. The elevator shot up like a rocket, and the girl was dragged with it, her body swinging under the floor of the car. The cloth was not strong enough to bear her weight and tore apart, the girl's body falling to the foot of the shaft, nearly 150 feet below. Every bone in the girl's body was broken.

The body was hastily removed to the wine cellar, and the festivities were continued without any of the guests knowing that a tragedy had been enacted within a few yards of where they stood. -New York Recorder.

Casting Great Statues.

Stiglmayer, a German goldsmith in the first part of this century, having an ambition to attempt larger works than any he had accomplished, went to Naples in order to see the casting of Canova's statue of Charles III, but was denied the sight of certain secret technical processes. Stiglnayer found them out for himself nevertheless, and as soon as he went home made his first experiment on a statuette of Venus. Many delays occurred, and the excitement increased as the end drew near. By some mistake one of his assistants poured his molten metal into the airhole. Then the casting came to a standstill. "The crowd of lookers on," writes the poor founder in his diary, "stood first dump about me and then slipped out one by one and left me with my pain." In a month a second casting was be-

Superintendent Babbidge of the Keene water works, who married a sister of the postmaster, and whose home is in the same house with Mr. Barrett, was selected to go to Cincinnati. Mr. Babbidge on arriving at Cincinnati was met at the railway station by a committee of Knights Templars who accompanied him to the hospital, where Mr. Barrett was being cared for. At that institution they were met by the superintending physician, who greeted them by saying that he was happy to say that Mr. Barrett was doing well, and would be glad to see his brother-in-law. The physician also said that he had informed Mr. Barrett that Mr. Babbidge was coming for him, and the invalid said he was very glad and that he Wanted to Go Home. The meeting between Mr. Babbidge and Mr. Barrett was a glad one, but in obedience to a suggestion made by the physician, Mr. Babbidge made no reference whatever to Mr. Barrett's disappearance or to what occurred to him after he left Keene until his arrival in Cincinnati. As soon as it could be done conveniently Mr. Babbidge and Mr. Barrett started for this city. The postmaster endured the personal friends in Keene and saying how glad he should be to get home, for he was tired and worn out.

There were quite a number of people gathered at the railway station here to greet Mr. Barrett, but the railway officials Had the Train Stopped

On nearing the city Mr. Barrett recognized the railway conductor and nearly all the train men, speaking kindly to each of them. His mind is perfectly clear and he is suffering from nervous prostration, which, it is believed, he will entirely recover from. No one but his physicians here, relatives and a few intimate friends are allowed to see him, and, aside from the physician, no one says but

The circumstances of his disappearance will not be talked about until he becomes stronger. There is no known cause for his going away excepting sickness caused by overwork. It is said that Mr. Barrett has not an enemy in Keene.

The court holds that the use of the steam whistle was a fault, but that it did not contribute solely to the collision, and her owners are entitled to recover one-half the damages sustained. The case is sent back to the district court for further proceedings in relation to the determining of damages.

STUBBORN FIRE.

A Dwelling at Wollaston Gutted and the Loss Heavy.

The alarm from Box 56 at 9.50 o'clock Thursday evening was for a fire in the French roofed house on Grand View avenue, Wollaston, owned by Charles R. Sherman and occupied by B. F. Floyd. The fire originated in the cellar probably from the heater, and by the time an alarm was turned in it had gained considerable head-

Within twelve minutes after the alarm was sounded at the central station, the steamer had two powerful streams playing. The fire was a difficult one to handle, working its waythrough the ceilings to the French roof where it was impossible to get a stream directly on it until it broke out. When it did come through the roof there as some hustling to wet down Q. A. Fannce's house and stables. The fire burned stubborny for three hours and was not extinguished until the building was completely guttel.

B. F. Floyd's loss on furniture is estimated by him at $2500; fully insured. Loss on house isestimated by Mr. Sherman at $5000; insured for $3500.

Alice Mitchell In the Asylum-Women In the Schools-Mrs. Croker In Washington. Athletic Training at a Woman's College. What Does It Mean?

The painted loves in the onyx ceiling of the Savoy hotel leaned down wonderingly over their rose wreaths above a brilliant company of notable women assembled to celebrate with feasting and oratory and music the twenty-fifth anniversary-the silver "singlehood"-of Sorosis. About the long tables festooned with garlands of smilax and spring blossoms were seated women savants in medicine and philosophy, women specialists in education and sociology, women celebrities in literature and art, women of the stage and women of the pulpit, women reformers and women society leaders. At the center of the officers table Mrs. Lozier, the thrice elected executive officer of the club, presided with vote candidates, but the others are gaining gracious tact and dignity. To a city man town meetings are a novelty. I attended one some years ago, over which an ex-governor presided. The various reports had been acted upon, and finally was read by the moderator an article on the amount of money the town should appropriate for the support of the schools this year.

The question had hardly been put when a citizen with a pronounced German accent jumped up, and with a roguish twinkle in his eye said: "Mr. Moderator, I want to ask the taxpayers to think a little while before we appropriate so much money as we did last year. What is de use of supporting a high school in this town if the childrens spend their time learning how many legs a straddlebug has got, when they can't answer some of the simplest questions. I want my boys and girls to learn some thing practical. The other day I wanted to write a letter to order some borax that I use in my business, and I said to my daughter, 'Gretchen, how do you spell borax?' and what do you suppose she said? She said she didn't know. 1 tell you, gentlemen, what we want is more common sense lessons and not so much straddlebugs business."-Boston

Our Knowledge of Insects.

In England we have about 12,000 spe cies of insects, and it is perhaps not to b expected that the ultimate total, when all the smallest species have been collected and studied as assiduously as the larger ones, will exceed this estimate by more than a few hundred, or at most 1,000 or very different, and I must confess that I was surprised when I lately received a fine new species of phasmida from Madagascar, to find that barely half a dozen species had yet been recorded from that island. If this is the state of our knowledge of such insects as phasmida, how imperfect must it be of the smaller spe cies of coleoptera, hymenoptera, diptera etc., many of which are of almost micro scopic dimensions!

Many insects are so local and so closely connected with plants which disappear before civilization that the same fate extermination which has fallen on s many of the larger animals during the last century cannot but fall heavily upon these also. It is not too much to say that it is highly probable that a large proportion of the insects at present existing in the world will become extinct before their existence is even known to scien tific men.-W. FASHION'S REALM.

Skirts Look Much Wider Than They Really Are.

Men Have Too Somber Clothes Anyhow, Says Olive Harper.

[Special Correspondence.] New York, April 13 .- Some of our orightest fashion writers have asserted recently that some of the dresses are made yards around. I had my doubts about 10 that and went to work with a tapeline, and after 10 days in every first class est skirt was a trifle less than 5 yards around the bottom, and that it would be next to impossible to make them any larger. The majority of the dresses that are stiffened out are from 31 to 4 yards around. They look much wider than they really are because of the stiffening which makes them fall in stiff waves rather than close, flat folds, as they did before; but it is safe to say that no one but the skirt dancers wear such exaggerated widths, and they have the thinnest of textures.

A photograph that has been taken of the queen of Greece within a monthand she is noted for her exquisite taste in dress, and she has all her gowns from Paris-shows a skirt close around the hips and mildly wide around the bottom. The dress is of soft gray wool, with two bias bands around the bottom of gray silk with magenta raised dots all over it. The sleeves are leg o' mutton, not very large and rather drooping.

I have noticed a great many pieces of en goods with raised dots in contrasting colors as well as darker shades of the same color. The dots are small and regularly placed. I think one, where the ground was a lovely shade of tan and the little tufts were of green silk, was as pretty a piece of goods as has come under my vision in many a day. The dots caught and on confession of his crime was were so small and so close that at first glance from one position it looked all green, and then another view showed the underlying color. There is something delightful always in the unexpected, and that, I think, is why the changeable effects have taken such a strong hold on public fancy.

There are several beautiful new goods in just such effects, and the importer told me that he thought by winter they would be used to make vests for men. I am glad, for I think men have too sombre clothes anyhow. They are not so very beauteous by nature as to be able to do away with all ornament and all brightness of color.

Up to now-that is, for many generations—their brilliancy has been mainly derived from neckties, and even there they were greatly restricted to the most modest and unobtrusive colorings; but now they are to have speckled vests and loose and bright hued neckties, and handkerchiefs with bright red polka dots and checker boards, and in fact unlimited fancies in colored borders. But I advise the gentlemen to make their own purchases, for tasteful as women are in their own gowns and gear, just so ignorant they appear regarding the proper color or form of the things their dear little souls delight in purchasing for their "hubbies." A little secret I must confess in this regard, and that is that those surprising neckties and scandalous look-

Let me persuade my sisters to leave travats and all that and look at the pret-by gowns I have for them here. One is of the new crepe perlette in ashes of roses, with pearly white raised dots. It is trimmed with five bias bands of silk velvet. Another charming spring gown is of pale gray-blue faille, with indigo sleeves and yoke. The silk is cut out in turrets and filled in with the darker faille There are, it will be noticed, lace undersleeves-not frills, but undersleevesfalling below the turret points. Altogether an awfully pretty gown.

The last is an outing gown of green camel's hair, with moss trimming in the same shade, and black Spanish lace or the cape and full loops of ribbon which encircle shoulders and fall in front in

Business Failures Throughout

NEW YORK, April 15.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Treasury gold is again reduced below $2,000,000 in excess of the bullion fund, and there is nore talk of bond issues, with the old doubt whether these would meet the real difficulty, which is the over the exports of goods. Exports of preadstuffs, cotton, provisions, cattle and oil in March were $17,889,184 less than in the same month last year, indicating aggregate exports in March not over $64,000,-000. But imports at New York alone inreased $8,085,324, indicating imports exceeding $95,000,000 and an excess of imports probably more than $30,000,000. In April thus far exports from New York are $3,000,000, or 20 per cent smaller than last year, while the increase in imports is even larger. Such a state of foreign trade renders exports of gold natural. In the great industries there is evidence that the volume of business is

Pig iron is steady, though Bessemer is rather weaker; rails are stagnant and bar is offered by western mills below cost of production at the east. Plates are a little stronger and the structural demand very

Prices Extremely Low. Copper is also a shade lower, the output exceeding the present demand. Tin de clined a little, but recovered, and lead is tronger at 4.15 cents. Coal has a stronger sion was continued yesterday. Mr. Carter, speaking in behalf of the United States, alluded to principles of international rights, on which were based the conflicting claims of England and the United States. The counsellor dwelt at length upon values attached by ancient and modern jurists to those first natural rights and natural laws recognized by the whole world. He asserted that through Indiscriminate fishing, carried on by Canadian vessels, the extinction of seals was threatened. He said the carryings on o the Canadians constituted a violation of the fundamental principles of international law, and that the United States un der the circumstances considered itself justified to interfere.

Mr. Carter then dwelt on original rights of Russia in the Behring sea, which dated back to the discovery of Pribiloff islands by Russian sailors. He said these rights embodied special edicts which were recognized by England. Among them, he said were rights of 15 and 100 miles limit within which foreign vessels were not al lowed under penalty of seizure and confis cation. All these rights, Mr. Carter con tinued, both as regards seal fishing and exemption of Behring sea from treaty be tween England and Russia, were secured i their entirety by the United States by treaty made with Russia in 1867.

To Promote Matrimony

Everybody in a big city knows how difficult it is for what may be called the lower middle class to make acquaint ances. Young men might marry young women if they knew any, and young women might make good wives if the knew where suitable husbands could be found. With that practical instinct characteristic of the British it is proposed now to bring these eligible people together. For the young man and the maiden at present there is no common meeting ground.

The scheme is to take most of the large boarding school buildings, which in America would be called public schools and turn them into meeting places for those anxious to marry-to let the children have possession of the schools by day and the older people take possession of them at night. Now the buildings stand idle after dark. It would be easy to have dances, meetings and lectures there, let every one attend who cares to and in this way bring about a union of loving hearts. The plan is feasible, and the chances are that it will be carried out here.-London Letter.

The Fate of the Naronic.

There is no information in regard to the nature of the disaster. The Naronic may have collided with a derelict, or there may have been a fire or an explo sion on board, such as to compel her crew to abandon her and take to their boats only to perish in the severe storms of Feb. 23, 24, or Feb. 27, 28.

If the Naronic took the northern trans atlantic route, which should not be followed after Jan. 14, she may have collided with an iceberg or field ice and have been sunk, as was the iron bark Adamantine on Feb. 27, in latitude 47 degrees 21 minutes north and longitude 47 degrees 39 minutes west. From this position the Naronic's boats may have been drifted by the prevailing winds and currents to the place where seen by the Coventry.

There has been less ice and fog this season than usual, and it is strange that such a disaster could occur without leaving some more definite trace of its na-

The Missouri congressmen tried it on, and got to wrangling as soon as they got their little board into operation. Senator Vest, who has been designated president of the board, soon wearied of it and sent in a formal resignation, and said that he she has written several letters to state of thing the board might do. A Fast Cunarder. LONDON, April 17.-The new steamer Campania, built for the Cunard company, had her trial trip on the Clyde Saturday. An Embezzler's Attorneys to Apply For a Writ of Habeas Corpus.

CINCINNATI, April 17.-A year ago Bob Bushnell, the noted railroad embezzler was convicted here and sent to the penitentiary. His counsel appealed on a writ of error, which was filed with the supreme court. This law is clear that when the supreme court grants leave for the filing of such, writ, sentence on the prisoner is hereby suspended, but it is silent as to what disposal shall be made of him. In this case Bushnell's attorneys made application for his release and recommittment to jail in Cincinnati, but the warden said the law did not authorize him either to release the prisoner or send him away from the penitentiary.

The total amount paid in bounty to sugar producers during this year up to th present time is $8,183,036, and there will b at least a million more before the fiscal year is closed, making the total consider ably more than $9,000,000. The total amount paid in bounty last year was $7, 342,077. The licenses to manufacturers show a large increase this year over those of last year, the number issued thus far merce and finance, seven congresses, of which the fourth, that of congress on year of 4240. It is hoped by the present officers that the younger men of our city will accept positions as officers, and carry on the work of caring for the trees already set out. It has been urged that the city should do this the city should be considered as the city should do this; that we need a forester. We may, perhaps, need one, but we need other things more, and the city cannot seem to afford this now.

Village improvement societies are springing up everywhere, and the work of setting out trees and beautifying public places was FOR SALE—By North never more active. IMMORAL LITERATURE.

Sunday Afternoon Address at the Y. M. C. A. Rooms by Henry Chase.

The second address on special subjects was given Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. N. E. Watch and Ward society. His subject was "Immoral Literature"

Mr. Chase first gave a short history of the societies for the supression of Vice, commencing with the London society. He then gave a history of the development of literature for the young. Fifty or sixty years ago there was a great deal of interesting reading matter for young people The New York Ledger was the first newsaper to introduce stories into its columns.

These stories were written by the best authors and the idea was taken up by other papers. Then came the cheap story paper, similar to those scattered around our cities today, from door to door, which are destitute of anything which is helpful or elevatng. Next came the class which has wrecked the lives of so many of the boys of our land. Yellow covered trash, filled with blood-curdling accounts of murders, robberies, Indian fighting on the land, and piratical exploits on the sea. Following this naturally came a class of reading inended to take the place of the Jesse James men they tire of that, but they must have take advantage of every opportunity to make a dollar, introduce the modern novel ing and is filled with every kind of impurity and indecency and appeals to the lowest nature of men and women. There is nothing too bad for the producers of this class of books, and all that hold them in check is the fear of the law. Massachusetts law is very plain on this subject, but like many jury which will convict, for the writers take care not to use terms which are technically obscene. A number of books have recently been seized, however, and the sellers convicted because of their immoral tendency.

These meetings are proving very helpful in arousing the young men to see the danger of these various agencies which the NEW YORK, April 17.—The wedding of devil is using to sap the life out of the young manhood of the country. Mr. T. B. Emery, of Wollaston, has charge of the 110 church, Fourth avenue and Twenty-first music, and is making the singing one of the attractive features of the meeting. Next Sunday Hon. B. B. Johnson, of Waltham, the most eloquent and one of the most successful temperance workers in Massachusetts, will speak on "Intemper-

Trouble With a Cook.

Mrs. Joshua and her family desired to cquire the correct Parisian accent and therefore engaged a French cook—a lady whose pot au feu had attained more than universal reputation. But no English household can live on fricasses, raie au beurre noir and asperges frappees, and when, therefore, the French cuisiniere was asked to supply a British breakfast the result was a failure. The mistress naturally enough, expostulated with the cook, who replied in the latest Parisian dished annually by the style. "Mille tonnerres," she cried, 'you no like my preakfast-plan-plan,' and at each word she hurled a plate or cup to the floor and danced upon the at-

At such a game the largest supply of china must become exhausted, and when the Cadogan square French cook had danced upon the last atom she was able to manufacture, she took up a kitchen knife and, like the famous Vatel, not only threatened in chagrin to end her own days, but to finish some other person's also. It took four or five fellow servants to hold her down until the mistress read the sentence of formal and immediate dismissal. The cuisiniere now sued Mrs. Joshua in the Westminster county court for a month's wages in lieu of notice, but the judge had that, no matter how the law stood in France, her conduct was not in consonance with English custom and therefore merited dismissal .-London Telegraph.

Palestine Under the Caliphs. In the first century of the decline of the great caliphs of Bagdad, Bernard, a Breton monk from the celebrated monastery of Mont St. Michel, set out for the Holy Land, traveling first to Rome. He found the Saracens in possession of Bari and transporting thousands of Italian Christians captives to Egypt and Barbary. After a month's sailing he reached Alexandria, where heavy tolls were levied, and so entered Palestine from the south by Gaza. His account contains the first known notice of the miracle of the holy fire, which must have been a recent custom, or Antony and Willibald, Sylvia and Paula would not all alike have been silent on the subject. He also speaks of the hospice for pilgrims erected by Charlemagne in Jerusalem near the sight afterward famous as the Hospital of the Knights of St. John.—Edinburgh Review.

He Liked to Be Late. Brignoli never was known to be ready to go on the stage to sing his part. He had to wait one minute or several minutes before appearing. In this he was a great trouble to managers. "Just give me one minute more," he would beg, and when that was up he would plead for another and another till all patience was exhausted. - New York Tribune.

The Red Men's Knowledge of the Laws of Health.

"Turkish" and "Russian" Bath of Civilization Known to the Indians.-How They Do It .- A Lesson From Natur which the Wise will Heed - Kickapoo Indian Sagwa a Grand Remedy.

In this way an Indian takes a "Turkish" or a "Russian" bath; They dig a hole in the earth, in which they lay stones, and upon which they build a fire, heating the stones to a red heat; they then carefully remove the coals; cutting a number of saplings they stick one end in the ground, bend them over and place the other end also in the ground, these extend over the hot stones in the shape of a half loop. Gver these poles or hoops the Indians place skins of animals or blankets. If the "Russian" or vapor bath is desired, they then throw water upon the hot rocks, thus generating steam. Those destring the vapor bath crawl underneath. After the pores of the skin are opened and they profusely perspire they crawl out and another Indian dashes buckets of cold water over them, or they plunge into a near by stream. They are then rubbed thoroughly with Kickapoo Indian Oil, and are given coplous dratts of Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, after which they roil up in blankets and have a sound sleep.

Romance and Tragedy Very Strongly Mingled.

A SELF-CONFESSED FORGER.

CINCINNATI, April 17. - Romance and tragedy are strongly mingled in a triple event which has mixed up this city with Chicago and New Orleans. The city was thrown into a flutter April 1 by the arrival of James Birba from New Orleans with a Spanish beauty whom he claimed was his wife. To add the element of romance to his visit it was announced that they were enjoying their honeymoon.

The couple located at the Hotel Emery and the man became quite popular among the swells of upper tendom.

Money Was Spent Freely and his friends multiplied with a rapidity that was not to be wondered at, as there seemed to be no bottom to his purse. They managed to get upon the outer fringe of so ciety, the attractiveness of the woman and the wealth of her reputed husband letting down the bars. They began to be lionized in all quarters, and yet the pace at which they were running did not seem to indicate the abyss over which they hung. There appeared to be no end to the round of gayety, out vesterday the veil was thrown aside revealing a hideous tragedy.

Saturday a telegram came to James Birba that his brother Peter in New Oreans had committed suicided, and he left Ostensibly For That City.

me of the acquaintances went to the hotel to impart the knowledge of the tragedy to the supposed bride. Repeated knocks upon their room door failed to elicit any answer. On bursting it open it was seen that the couple had fled. This was a still greater surprise to the hotel people, who are particularly anxious as to Birba's whereabouts, for his bill of several nundred dollars is unpaid, his merry life having been an expensive one. The couple are said to have swooped down on Chieago. The police have started out on their

LANDING A BARRACUDA.

Game to the Core and Every Inch a Gen-[Special Correspondence.]

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 8 .- Lining that shore of San Diego bay which lies next the town are the huts of many fishermen—Portuguese, Greeks and Chinamen -whose daily bread, to speak in paradox, is the barracuda. With one of these brown skinned Greeks I cast in my lot, and the first dusk of an early March evening found me aboard his odorous little sloop, with his party of three, floating with the slow ebb of the tide out from the shelter of the bay past the massive headland of Point Loma into the open sea. Here we moored for the night, stretched ourselves upon the cramped deck under the quiet starlight and slept. At 2 o'clock in the blurred misty morning we were aroused by the little Greek and sat upon the deck. He already had a little fire burning in his to lose, for at 3 the barracuda would begin to bite. There was no wind; only a intermittently, and we were put at the hour, struggling to pass the matted kelp

Already a dozen sails were flitting back and forth, phantomlike, in the deep shadows of the mist. "Portuguese!" the himself in rigging his lines. His boat carried four of 20 yards in length, thick as clotheslines, knotted firmly at one end to iron staples driven into the boat's rail, with at the other end the codies of white bone 4 or 5 inches ong, curved throughout their length so that they will flash and flirt through the water deceptively. A fresh, strong wind was tugging at the brown sail and sending the salt spray dashing over the low deck, and with one of the men at the tiller the sail was hauled into the wind and the boat leaped forward, dragging its four lines through the water. The barracuda were hungry. I, un-

tutored, saw no sign, but a shout from the little Greek announced the first snap, and straightway he threw his body half over the boat's rail, knotted his horny ands in one of the lines and began fierce struggle with the powerful fish securely hooked at the other end. The h was strong too. Back and forth it dashed, now diving until the line stretched straight down into the green depths beneath the boat and then throwing its great, shining, beautiful body half a dozen feet into the air, lashing the waters into silvery spray. But the fish lacked the wily experience of the fisherman, and so slowly, slowly, hand over hand, the line was drawn in, until at last the gasping head was lifted clear of the water beside the boat. Then another of the men lent a hand, and the fish was aboard and lay sullen upon the deck. He was 2 inches over 4 feet long, game to the core and every inch a gentleman. And then came another and another and another in quick succession. The wind was down the coast, and the boat made a succession of sharp tacks, dodging now far out into the sea and then back again, while the water grew rough under the touch of the freshening breeze, and it was with difficulty that Two hours more, and daylight began we could keep our feet. to break, but still we fished on, and the gasping mass in the bottom of the boat came half way to our boot tops. Then as the dawn brightened we could begin to see the fish when they rose from the hooks, sometimes a dozen of them trailing along behind the tempting bait doubtfully, until one or two would dart forward and snap. Many times two or three would be hooked at once, and twice we were hauling in all four of the lines at the same time

Suddenly at 3 o'clock, when we were 15 miles up the coast and 6 miles from and, the barracuda stopped biting, and the Greeks hauled in the lines. "No more today," they said. "Barracuda no bite now till morning," and the boat was put about and headed toward home. We had done well enough. In the bottom of the boat lay 57 silvery beauties, some quite 5 feet long, others not over 18 inches, altogether more than a quarter of a ton of fish. We were content to sit quietly down and watch the dancing waters until, with the sun falling low in the west, we drifted calmly with the late tide into the shelter of the bay.

Politics In Modern Greece.

The modern Greeks are fond of argument and discussion and will sit for hours around a glass of water talking politics. This passion for politics is inherent. The distinction in Greek politics is chiefly self interest. Everybody is a patriot, but the good of the state is a matter of personal judgment. If M. Tricoupis is unpopular, it is not because his public virtues are doubted, but because his administration is expensive for he multitude, and the taxes on wine, petroleum and daily fare very heavy. dence the Delyannists nicknamed the Highest of all in Leavening Power .- Latest U. Conncilman Brown had looked over the two lots and was in favor of the Butler lot. There is a large pond near the Butler lot which will prevent any building being erected near it.

Councilman Badger read a letter from Mr. Butler agreeing that so much of the pond not included in lots 14, 15, 26 and 30, shall be forever used as a pond.

Councilman Moxon said we are building a schoolhouse to accommodate all wards. It is unreasonable to expect that the street railway will run all its cars to North Quincy and it was the duty of the council to legislate that the centre of the city shall not be scattered. A building in which the citizens are interested should be near as possible to the established centre. It is 10 or 12 minutes walk to the Butler lot. It is highly important to have a large yard at the Grammar schools, but it is not for a High school. Had no right to build a High school very far from the centre of transportation.

The order for the Butler lot was then passed to its second reading by the follow-

An Archduchess' Splendid Gift.

The Austrian archduchess who was recently married did not take her splendid bridal robe with its embroideries of silver margarites and costly lace to her new home, but made a gift of it to the church where her sisters and brothers prayed continually for her recovery during a serious illness. The beautiful gown is to be made into a set of Easter garments for the priests, and the bride will keep only for her remembrance of the day the veil of tulle and the myrtle wreath which all German and Austrian brides wear in token of their purity.

BENNINGTON, Vt., April 18. - Robert Pilling, a well known contractor of this village, is confined to his home by concus sion of the brain, which the attending physician thinks is the result of a sandbagging, as no external bruises can be found.

Pilling went to Troy, N. Y., last Monday, to purchase hardware, intending to return that night. He purchased the goods, and told the clerk to make out the bill and he would see return and attle bill and he would soon return and settle He then left the store.

CONTRACT LABOR LAW.

A Bicycle Manufacturer Who Imported

Workmen Found Not Guilty. Boston, April 18.—A person must take a physical part in the actual transportation of aliens imported under contract to work in this country before he is criminally liable under section 6, chapter 551 of the act of congress of 1891. Justice Nelson so ruled in the case of Cadwallader M. Raymond, a bicycle manufacturer, who was on trial for a violation of that section He imported into this country Roland G. Cohen and Ernest Linegar, two subjects of Great Britain living at Birmingham, Eng. The court, at the conclusion of the evidence for the government, ordered the jury to return a verdict of not guilty The evidence tended to show that he had engaged them while he himself was in England and paid their fare to this country. They worked at his factory from April, 1892, until January this year. They were then discharged.

The attempt to hold the importer of the aliens falls flat. The court intimated that it had no jurisdiction over the case, as the contract was made in England and not in this country.

The aliers, who have been in jail for 85 days awaiting this trial, will receive $85 for their detention, they being entitled to were imported by Raymond as skilled bicycle manufacturers to introduce into this country a machine which was claimed to have been never made in this country.

GOING ON FOR YEARS.

Systematic Robbery by Trusted Employes of a Watch Company.

WALTHAM, Mass., April 18.—Two more of the employes of the American Watch company, it seems, have been concerned in a systematic robbing of the company for many years past. It appears that on last Friday Fred Willis, a job master of the company, left Waltham suddenly, and his wife, suspecting that he had deserted her, in her anger called on Chief McKenna and informed him that her husband was a thief. Mrs. Willis said that Henry B. Brooks was concerned with her husband in the stealing. A visit to Brooks' house resulted in the finding of more than 300 hairsprings, worth $8 a dozen, and a large quantity of dials, screws and hands. On the first visit to Willis' home the officers found only a lot of miscellaneous articles, but later they found buried in the cellar 346 dials and a lot of hairsprings gold hands, jewels and other material, the whole valued at several hundred dollars. In addition to the articles found, Mrs. Willis said her husband took away with him as much more. Willis is about 52 years old, and has been with the company for more than 20 years. He has always been looked upon as a faithful employe. Brooks, who is about 35 years old and married, was arrested yesterday and placed under $300 bonds for his appearance in the

The plan to admit women to the club was at first ridiculed, then bitterly opposed and finally accepted with the proviso that if found detrimental to

Flowers For the Hair.

Natural flowers, one is delighted to think, are again the most fashionable ornament for the hair. There can indeed be nothing more charming in every way than a fresh, sweet flower for the adornment of any woman's dress. One thing only in connection with this graceful fashion strikes one as preposterous. Whenever the announcement is made that "fresh flowers are coming in again," one also reads that such and such flowers are most fashionable. What nonsense this is, to be sure!

You choose flowers, and, above all, flowers which you intend to wear in your hair or on your dress, chiefly for liste absolutely declines to outline his the sake of their shape and color—unfuture financial action. Prepared to Turn on Her Tears.

One young woman went to the matinee prepared for the affecting parts of the play. She carried lightly sewed in the center of a second handkerchief a tiny powder puff, which she proceeded to dust with powder from a little enameled box into which it fitted. With the puff concealed in the handkerchief she calmly watched the scene progress to the agony point, ignoring the tears that, sure enough, began presently to stream down her cheeks. When the curtain fell, however, she took instant advantage of the momentary reaction of the audience, and wiping her face with one handkerchief, with the second she cleverly dusted her too red nose and cheeks with the toning down powder, and beamed upon the women about her who were not forearmed. -Pittsburg Dispatch.

A DRAMATIC STORY

Related by a Young Man With a Varied Career.

WAS A CHILD OF THE ARMY

But Misdeeds Have Brought Him to a Prison Cell.

DEDHAM, Mass., April 19.-In the Norfolk superior criminal court a somewhat sensational episode occurred late yesterday afternoon, when William George Symonds, a well-dressed, intelligent-looking young man, was called for sentence. He was indicted by the Norfolk grand jury, at its recent session at Dedham, for the larceny, Nov. 27, 1892, of two valuable robes from the stable of his employer, Dr. Mason of Brookline, and he pleaded guilty. The court asked Symonds if he desired to any anything before sentence was imposed, and the prisoner arose and told his story. Symonds' Story.

His father, he said, was a colonel in a British regiment, and he was practically a child of the army, being born within the lines. When 14 years of age he ran away from school and secured a place June 11, 1878, in the British army as a solo cornetist in the 10th hussars, and in 1877 went with them to India. Later, in 1878, '79 and '80 he saw service in the Afghanistan war and followed his war service up by going through the Soudan campaign, where he came near losing his eyesight because of the effects of the sun and fine sand

In all, he served eight years and 202 days in the army. After coming back to England from the Soudan he had an operation performed on his eyes. He next became drillmaster and served as a solo cornetist at the Theater Royal at Aldershot, Eng. Before he secured his position as a drillmaster he had got a lawyer's clerk

INDIAN BATHS

The Red Men's Knowledge of the Laws of Health.

"Turkish" and "Russian" Bath of Civili-zation Known to the Indians .- How They Do It .- A Lesson From Nature which the Wise will Heed - Kickapoo Indian Sagwa a Grand Remedy.

Indians Taking Vapor Baths.

In this way an Indian takes a "Turkish" or a "Russian" bath; They dig a hole in the earth, in which they lay stones, and upon which they build a fire, heating the stones to a red heat; they then carefully remove the coals; cutting a number of saplings they stick one end in the ground, bend them over and place the other end also in the ground, these extend over the hot stones in the shape of a half loop. Gver these poles or hoops the Indians place skins of animals or blankets. If the "Russian" or vapor bath is desired, they then throw water upon the hot rocks, thus generating steam. Those destring the vapor bath crawl underneath. After the pores of the skin are opened and they profusely perspire they crawl out and another Indian dashes buckets of cold water over them, or they plunge into a near by stream. They are then rubbed thoroughly with kickapoo Indian Oil, and are given coplous drafts of kickapoo Indian Sagwa, after which they roll up in blankets and have a sound sleep.

Who can teach the Indians anything about health? His own physique answers for his superior knowledge. His preparations of roots, barks and herbs, now given to the world for the first time in the Kickapoo Indian Remedies are unequalled by any discoveries of the med. ical world of the whites.

Who can teach the Indians anything

When you feel twinges of pain in your joints, look out, a slight cold might develop Rheumatic Fever. If you have pains in your back or sides your liver is congested or your kidneys are not performing their work and poison is gathering in your body. Exposure to cold or contagious diseases would be fatal to you.

Pimples, blotches, and other humors indicate that the poison is working in your blood. You feel languid, heavy, dull; you awake in the morning unrested. Beware! Drive these symptoms away at once!

Take Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. It will cleanse your system, heal your diseased cieanse your system, heal your diseased organs, purify and enrich the blood, and drive every taint of poison from your body. Then you will feel strong, bright, alert and active as the Indian does.

Kickapoo Indian Sagwa is composed of mature's remedies, gathered and prepared by nature's children, who depend not upon book knowledge for their cures, but upon the leaves, the flowers, the roots and the herbs that are placed in the earth by an all-wise Providence for the benefit of every living creature.

Why, look at the animals!

If your horse lacks his accustomed vigor you are taught to turn him out to pasture.

You do so. The horse gets well.

Why?
Because there grows in every field the tender leaves of some medicinal plans which instinct tells the animals to eat, and does for the poor old horse precisely what some other, or perhaps the same plant will do for a human being. Restores the wasted energies! Renews the lost strength! Revives the drooping spirits.

A VICTIM OF SPEAKING TUBES. Sad Fate of a Man of Peace Who Is Situated Midway on a Vocal Route. There is a man in this town whose work keeps him sitting at his desk all day. He thinks himself fortunately situated, for his employers are considerate in their requirements and liberel in the matter of pay, and his work is enjoyable. The others who work in the same room are busy men. They seldom speak, but when they do have something to tay it is of a pleasant nature. His modest home has been all that heart could wish, so far as comfort and contentment go. All these things are sources of grateful satisfaction to him, for he is a man of middle age and is no longer conumed by youthful ambition to possess the unattainable. He is of a placid disposition and is, above everything else, a lover of peace. Thus situated he ought

Close to his desk, inclosed by a thin wooden sheathing, are some tin speaking tubes that run from an upper story of the building to a lower story. These stories contain departments of the same business, and the tubes are in almost constant use. The tubes are cracked at about the altitude of this man's desk, Andrew Kirwan, E. H. Doble & Co., 45,225 and the wooden sheathing is split in places. The cracks in the tubes give a George W. Taylor, Wm. A. Hodges, 21,398 curious querulous sound to every voice that ascends or descends through them. A feud of long standing exists between the office boys and others who speak from the upper floor and those who 4098 speak from the lower story. A pleasant 1770 word never ascends or descends. All the 1065 harshness of inflection that accompanies 435 the harsh words is strangely multiplied by the cracked condition of the resonant speaking tubes, and this man of naturally peaceable inclinations has to sit and hear it all. Unfortunately his is a somewhat sensitive and sympathetic nature. It is impossible for him to remain undisturbed also gained, and Miss Ellis passes another when this continuous war of words is going on through the speaking tubes. A provocative voice from above causes him to side with the floor far beneath him, and the reply that comes up grieves 177 him, and he thinks that the upper floor has been assailed with unpardonable violence. Then there is a rattling exchange of warlike expressions in angry tones -made more angry to the ear by the 30 cracked speaking tubes—and the man of 24 peace groans and sighs for the quiet of a 18 lodge in some vast wilderness. He has 15 heard these savage exchanges so long 12 and so continually that his conception 12 as to the sound of the male human voic is like that which comes to his ears through these diabolical speaking tubes.

This has been going on year after year, and the feud shows no signs of abatement. Its effect on the helpless man of peace is deplorable. He feels constantly as if he were a party to a never ending quarrel. He goes out to his luncheon danger of the Belgian situation. The feeling like a man who has just been engaged in a riot, and he does not enjoy his food. The Charm of Dickens. Perhaps the dominant charm of Dickens' novels lies in the secret of his ability to portray with skill the workings of an affectionate heart. The Cheeryble brothers send out warm sunny rays of loving kindness on every reader of "Nicholas Nickleby." Little Dorrit, God bless her memory, with her sweet, unselfish devoion to her complacent father and thoughtless brothers and sister and witless Maggie, wins the sympathy of every one. Dear old Pegotty, redarmed, a genuine lover; honest Ham and his father; poor little Em'ly, Agnes and

The vote is well received in this city. A general feeling of relief prevails. The extra issues of the newspapers agree in welcoming the bill, which is considered a means of salvation

The workmen's general council adopted a resolution that in view of the vote of the chamber respecting suffrage the strike may be declared off, but the struggle for the abolition of the plurality voting must con

out. Those who remained at work were attacked by the strikers, and the troops were called upon to protect the workers soldiers had little or no effect in quelling disperse met with no attention. strikers continued their attacks upon the "blacklegs" as though no troops wer present. The officer in command of the soldiers ordered his men to fix their bay onets and then followed the order t charge. On a full run, with levelled bay onets, the soldiers charged upon the rioter and drove them away. Four of the strikers were killed and 15 others received more or less serious bayonet thrusts. It is said that some of the wounded will die. Anarchists and Socialists Busy.

In Antwerp the outlook is more threatening, and this despite the fact that extraordinary military precautions have been taken to preserve the peace. Among the more prominent of the agitators Antwerp are a number of anarchists. Of these, two—Fabry and Welters—have made themselves particularly obnoxious to the police, and they were placed under ar-rest. While troops are being held in readiness for disturbances that are threaten in all parts of the kingdom, it is feared that the worst may come from other parts of the continent. There is a tendency for an epidemic of socialistic outbreaks, bu in Germany the government is meeting it firmly, and all the powers realize the powers of the industrial towns to expel any foreigners who may have assisted the revolution in Belgium. DISORDER AT ANTWERP.

Commit Other Depredations. ANTWERP, April 19.-The strikers yes terday afternoon set fire to the cotton sheds on the Rhine wharf. The fire progressed rapidly. Extreme excitement prevails in the city. In the harbor districts, the dock strikers will allow none of the non-unionists to engage in loading and discharging the cargoes of ships. They are waylaying them everywhere, and numer-ous excesses were committed in several parts of the city in consequence. A number of strikers took possession of two steamships and threw all the machinery used in discharging the vessel into the water. The police report four serious collisions with rioters. Several of the latter were wounded. The captains walk about the decks of their vessels, revolvers in hand, and ready to shoot down anybody who dares mount their boat unauthorizedly. While the attention of the police is thus engaged crimes are committed in unusal number. The civic guards and the artillery have been ordered to protect the petroleum tanks, as the strikers have threatened to explode them. Grave apprehensions are felt that th strike may spread and perhaps become general, as in Belgium. If this should be the case the government would have a hard struggle to suppress the rioters, for the Dutch army is neither extensive nor well disciplined.

In spite of the declarations by the government that everything is quiet, the pub-lic refuses to be pacified. Pandemonium reigns in the harbor districts, and serious collisions are constantly taking place. Both sides are using firearms, and on many occasions the pavements are red with blood. When the police and gen-darmes tried to clear the square at St. Giles last evening, the crowds assembled there made a great resistance, and the po-lice fired a volley into them.

At 9 o'clock last evening an encounter, attended by bloodshed, occurred at the candle manufactory at Borgerhout. Six George H. Brown & Co. people were killed and a great many The strikers made another attack upon the steamship Hansen, which was taking on cargo. They ordered the captain to stop work. In reply, the captain hoisted p flag and the steam pump began discharg-ing a stream of water and steam into the crowd. This act induced the rioters to hurl a volley of stones on board and several sailors were wounded. The captain gave orders to fire, and about 30 revolver shots were discharged in the direction of the assailants. Three women were wounded by the shots.

At this juncture the town guards appeared upon the scene and dispersed the strikers in all directions. They reassem bled, however, in another part of the city and rescued several prisoners from the police. The rioters sacked several stores in the neighborhood of the Mexico basin and the south of the quay, where the steamship Nansen is moored, a party of medicine for their astringent pro prieties strikers tried to throw bombs into the and the gallic and tannic acid they furnish, are also the work of insects.—London Tit Directs.—London Tit

BRUSSELS, April 19.-The chamber of representatives, by a vote of 119 to 12, having adopted universal suffrage, it is to be seen what effect this radical political movement will have on the social disturbances. THE GOLD BALANCE.

Silver May Be Used to Check Further Reduction.

A NEW BURDEN FOR BANKS

the Financial Tangle.

Washington, April 19.—It is learned nofficially that instructions have been sent to the several sub-streasurers of the United States to suspend payments of gold in redemption of notes issued under the Sherman silver bullion purchase act of 1890 and to redeem such notes in the future in silver coin.

When questioned in regard to it an official said it would have to come to that. It was previously stated in the dispatches of the American Press that the secretary of the treasury had such an order under consideration in the hope that it would tend materially to arrest the reduction of the treasury's gold balance. The authority for this action is contained in section 2 of the Sherman act, which provides that 'The secretary of the treasury shall, under such regulations as he may prescribe, redeem such notes in gold or silver coin at

Immediately following this grant of diseretionary authority is the following clause

Act Declaratory of Our Policy: "It being the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other on the present legal ratio or such ratio as may be pro rided by law.

The effect of an order for the redemption f silver certificates coupled, with the order of last Saturday stopping the issuance of gold certificates will be to make it more difficult for the gold export brokers to obtain gold for shipment, and will throw the burden of furnishing gold to some extent from the government to the banks. The banks, it is said, will, in their turn, check any outward movement of specie, if it be omes a matter of importance to them, by raising the rate of interest.

Treasury Figures. A statement, taken from the report of the ways and means committee, which inrestigated the condition of the treasury at he close of last congress, shows that for he seven months beginning July 1, 1892, $21,136,800 of treasury notes were redeemed with these notes whenever the treasury orders it stopped and as gold certificates will no longer be issued, the banks and brokers will be unable by gathering in applies of these notes and certificates to at least, be forced to store the gold in their own instead of in the treasury vaults. A gold taken from the sub-treasury yesterday for export, $900,000 was drawn by preeeling prevails, and the belief is expressed that the general knowledge which was gaining currency that the secretary would draw on the gold reserve rather than issue onds would relieve the situation somewhat by making less urgent certain efforts to export gold.

THE SCOUT'S RIDE.

Christmas day, 1862, found the Army of the Potomac in winter quarters near Falmouth, Va., writes Major George F. Williams in The Rider and Driver. With that elasticity of spirit so characteristic had already recovered from the effects of that terrible battle at Fredericksburg, when the several corps were buffeted by Lee's guns on St. Mary's Heights. Many Unexpebtedly Start a Riot and Assault a familiar face was missing from the ranks, but convalescents were rapidly arriving from the hospital, and the army was preparing for its approaching spring Gettysburg.

While his staff was exchanging Christmas greetings soon after reveille General Hooker summoned to his presence Jim White, one of the headquarters "White," said the general, "I learn from Washington that it is believed that the rebs contemplate a movement other ministers as they left the legislative through the Loudon valley. You must go and ascertain if this is true.'

"All right, general," replied the scout, with a brief salute as he turned to leave the tent. "What route will you take?" asked the general. "I shall go by the Warrenton road and leave our lines from the pickets of General Sykes' regulars. From Warrenton to Aldie gap is a day's ride, and then will be in the valley.

"I hope to see you then in five days." "If I get back at all, sir, you will see e on New Year's eve. It can't be done ny quicker.'

"Very well. Go and get your pass." It was a great disappointment for Jim White, this being summoned for dangerous duty on Christmas day, for he had ntended being one of the guests of a comrade who had received a fat turkey from home. But, putting aside all thought of the proposed festivity, Jim got his pass for the picket line, and saddling his horse rode away from head-rode through the gap as the setting sun began to gild the mountain tops. Dressed in faded butternut, the usual costume of a Virginia farmer, the scout had met with no adventure, and he was looking forward to a speedy termination to his

The horse Jim rode was a remarkable animal. Possessing good blood and action, it nevertheless was rather uncouth in appearance. Its coat was very rough, and as the scout seldom used the currycomb, the brute did not look like a fast one. Jim, however, knew the good qualities of his beast, for they had often been proved in critical moments. Always adopting the character of a Virginia farmer, Jim's shaggy horse aided in the deception, and only those who knew his real character would recognize a famous scout in the queer picture he made in the saddle. "Seems to me," said the scout, soliloquizing, "those people in Washington are always finding mare's nests. Here I am in the Loudon and not a reb in

As he uttered the words, Jim came to another road which crossed the one he had been following. In an instant he discovered the approach of a Confederate cavalry patrol. Accustomed to such perils, Jim very coolly checked his steed and waited for the little party.

"Whar yeou cum from?" demanded the cavalry leader as he and his men rode up. "Bin down in Aldie," drawled Jim. Went to see how things looked down "B'long to the army?"

"Well, not exactly, though I've done my share toward thinning out the "Oh, then you are one of Mosby's

"Yaas." "And whar are yeou going?" "Up by the way of Ashby gap. Promised to be in Martinsburg tomorrer." "Is that the road to Aldie?"

"Yaas. It's the way I've come." "Well, good day; we must get through the gap tonight. "Yeou can do it easy. There's no

Yanks this side of Warrenton." "Thanks." And then the patrol proceeded. Jim having mentioned Ashby gap was compelled to take the road just left by the Confederates, for unless he did so he knew their suspicions might be aroused. Thanking his lucky stars for getting by them so easily, Jim supposed he had escaped. He had not yet got out of sight,

'Pears to me, sargint, that fellow's a Yank. Mebbe he's a scout."

however, when he heard one of the men

Jim White dug his spurs into his horse's flanks. The animal started off on a gallop. Having got so good a start, the scout decided to risk everything by instant flight. The rapid reverberations betrayed his purpose, and the patrol was soon thundering in pursuit after him.

Jim knew that he was in danger of being shot, but as he was also aware that the aim of galloping horsemen is always very uncertain he entertained very little fear on that score. To him capture now meant certain death at the end of a rope swung over the convenient trunk of a tree. Unless he could outstrip his pursuers his career as a Union scout was at

On and on rode the fugitive scout and his pursuers, the latter occasionally giving voice to the yell so often heard from Confederate throats. Gradually the distance between Jim and the patrol widened, and it seemed tolerably clear that the scout would ultimately escape by the superior speed of his horse.

Gleefully looking up the straight road that led to the gap, Jim's heart suddenly stopped beating, for he had just disovered the approach of another body of horsemen. His sharp eyes told him that the newcomers were enemies. He had apparently fallen into a trap.

But Jim White would never have succeeded as a scout had his wits been less sharp. He had been in similar straits before, yet had escaped. By a sudden twist of his rein he compelled the animal under him to make a bolt to the right, and almost at the same instant the horse made a leap over the stone fence. Then, stretching out on a furious gallop, his steed was soon crossing the field of snow strewn stubble.

Both of the Confederate patrols folowed, but as they were delayed in getting over the fence Jim had meantime reached the other side of the field, his horse leaping a wide ditch in his stride. Two or three carbines were emptied at him as the horse rose from the leap, but all the bullets went wide of their mark. It was now a test of speed and endurance, and Jim had again a sanguine hope of escape. He knew the valley well, and as he rode gallantly forward the thought entered his busy brain that on the other side of a small wood he was approaching there was a road leading toward the River Potomac. He also remembered that a mile or two below there was a bridge across a narrow creek, and he at once formed the plan by which he finally eluded his pursuers.

It took only a few seconds to enter the wood and dash through it. On reaching the road he darted off again, being fully a mile ahead when the Confederates took up his trail. In less than 10 seconds Jim had reached the bridge, it being just beyond a sharp turn in the road, thus shut-Reaching the little village of Aldie on | ting him out of the sight of the united

Suddenly reining in, he dismounted and led his horse under the bridge. Once there, he covered the animal's nose with his hat to check its labored breathing and ordered it to kneel. The command was promptly obeyed by the docile steed, t seeming to recognize its master's peril. Standing there, ready for any emergency, the scout calmly waited, hearing the sharp clatter of the Confederates as they rapidly approached. Nearer and nearer came the thundering hoofs, and a moment later they rattled on the bridge.

The trained and intelligent animal gave no sign of its presence, and in a few minutes the pursuing party was out of sight and hearing. Then Jim returned to the road and galloped away up the valley. He reached Aldie gap late in the night, and passing through without challenge bivouacked in a wood near the Centerville road. He reached General Hooker on New Year's eve and made his report, and thus it was that Jim White's shaggy but fleet steed saved him from capture and death.—True Flag.

A Flustrated Pilgrim.

A good pilgrim story comes from Rome. It appears that among the Irish pilgrims to the Eternal City was a certain shopkeeper from Mullingar. This gentleman looked forward with more concern than any of his fellow travelers to seeing his holiness and on the morning of the audience at the Vatican was beside himself with excitement. Now it so happened that when the Irish pilgrims were about to enter that particular part of the Vatican where the pope was waiting to receive them, the shopkeeper from Mullingar got separated from the rest of his friends and turning the handle of a ponderous door found himself in the presence of the august head of the Roman Catholic church. The blood almost froze in his veins, and in vain did he look for a face that he recognized. The splendor, too, of the papal court did not improve matters. So what he did was to throw himself on his knees at the feet of the pope and shout out, loud enough to be heard in every corner of the vast chamber, "O howly father, Oi'm from Mullingar!"-Yorkshire (England) Post.

Aluminium Plating. Much interest has been aroused by the electroplating of the iron work of the Philadelphia city hall tower with aluminium. It is expected that three years will be occupied in completing the work, as the process of aluminium plating is very tedious, and there is a surface of 50,-000 square feet to be covered. The iron is first given baths of caustic soda, of dilute sulphuric acid and of copper solution in immense tanks 28 feet long, 4 feet wide and 5 feet deep. The aluminium tank holds about 7,000 gallons and receives the work after it has been dipped. Nearly 10 tons of aluminium will be required to coat the whole surface. - New York Tele-

Confiding Farmer Falls Into the Hands of Buncoers.

And Found No Difficulty In Fleecing Their Victim.

MILFORD, Mass., April 20.—Yesterday Samuel Gaskell, over 80 years old, a Hope dale farmer and investor, was buncoed very cleverly by two strangers out of $1100. Mr. Gaskill was approached at his home, near Westcott's mills, East Hopedale, by a glib, persuasive chap, who, after insinuating himself into his Victim's Good Graces, unfolded a plausible scheme for the pur-chase of land in Hopedale worth several thousands for $2200, displaying a bond for a deed thereof.

Mr. Abbott reminded the house that land available for open spaces was constantly decreasing. The house refused to postpone. Mr. Abbott said the bill was carefully guarded and was of vital interest to all the state. The house then passed the bill almost manimously, to be engrossed.

Mr. Darling of Hyde Park, when the house took up the bill to authorize the Newton and Boston Street Railway company to increase its calital stock, issue bonds and for other purposes, argued that the bill should be materially amended in order to restrict the power of the road to unite with other companies. Mr. Darling also proposed that the total stock should not exceed $35,000 per mile of track. Mr. Darling's amendments were adopted, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

The next bill was a similar one for the Natick Electric Street railway. Mr. Dodge offered an amendment "that all rights granted under this act shall be null and void in case said road shall be sold or leased to or in any way controlled by any foreign corporation." Mr. Dennis was against it, but the house was for it, 66 to 20. Mr. Dennis moved to reconsider, and Mr. Wood spoke for reconsideration in order to await the promised general bill. Mr. Dodge insisted that his amendment was only reasonable. Reconsideration was refused, 40 to 67, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

The committee on election laws reported several bills. The committee on public health reported a bill to amend the act providing for the appointment of an inspector of provisions, milk, butter, cheese and vinegar for the city of Lynn by including the inspection of animals intended for slaughter or kept for the production of milk. The committee on public health reported a bill for the licensing of plumbers and the supervision of the business of plumbing in this commonwealth. These boards are given the supervision over the plumbing business, with pover to issue licenses at EDWIN BOOTH DYING.

Commissioner Blount Acted Under Instructions.

HAULING DOWN THE FLAG

Was a Part of the Program if Peace Prevailed.

purporting to come from Commissioner Blount that the hauling down of the American flag was only the first part of the Hawaiian programme is causing considerable speculation in diplomatic and political circles as to what will be the se quel. It is intimated in certain quarters that it is the intention of the president to restore the queen to her throne. This idea is traceable to the fact that the Presider and Mrs. Cleveland having received the princess, who came here from London to lay her claims to the throne by presumptive right before the president, technically committed this government to a consideration of her position. The princess and her father left the American capital with that idea

Dominant In Their Minds. It is asserted at the department of state that the character of the audience granted to the princess was a subject of purely in formal arrangement, that the princess was so specifically informed and accepted the accorded interview on those conditions Therefore, this interview had no bearing whatever on the main question. Presi dent Cleveland, however, made up hi mind at that time, and so informed the secretary of state that he proposed to as-certain the exact condition of affairs on the islands before any further steps were taken in this important matter.

In the conference which Mr. Blount had with the president on the eve of his de-parture the question of restoring the statu quo was discussed. The understanding then was that if the conditions on the isl and were peaceful and satisfactory and there was no danger of an interference o the part of any foreign power or uprising of the people which would endanger the lives and property of American citizens,

The Flag Should Be Taken Down, and the marines should return to their ships. This was not intended by thi government to be an unfriendly act nor to commit the United States in any manne against annexation, but simply to place the conditions as they were before Minister Stevens hoisted the flag and called upo the American admiral for support. The president and Secretary Gresham re garded this act as designed simply as precautionary measure in order to give the provisional government such moral sup port as would enable it to prevent di orders, as well as a notification to foreign powers that interference from them would not be tolerated. Commis has no authority in his instructions to go beyond the point of dissolving the protect torate preparatory to more comprehensive negotiations. Some surprise has been expressed among the members of the foreign relations committee at the language employed by the president in his letter to Provisional President Dole that the authority of Commis sioner Blount was paramount to all othe American authority on the island in thus Washington, April 20.-Applications superseding the United States minister have been filed at the treasury department | The senators say that the president ex for positions as follows: From Massa-chusetts, H. The Cuban treaty, it is thought, may, perhaps, depend upon concessions being made to this country. Complaints have been made that Cuba and Porto Rico are not carrying out the treaties in a spirit of fairness, and that the local officials are violating the terms of the agreements. Flour, it is said, is one of the articles as to which this country does not think it is being fairly treated. The Brazilian treaty can only be abrogated after three months notice. The inquiry into the workings of the reciprocal arrangements with South American countries will be continued, and it is likely that the next year will witness ome decided changes of policy as to reci-

It is generally believed by those competent to knew, that the bill as it now is is the best for the city, as before it becomes a law it has got to pass through five stages outside of the senate and governor, namely,-the board of Aldermen, Common Council and Mayor of Boston, and the Council and Mayor of Quincy, either one of which can kill the bill.

At exactly 9.52 woods, and is now hanging to a tree, with Foreman Thomas entered the house, and his body riddled with bullets. The sheriff was quickly followed by four other members of the company, and it was 9.59 when Driver Nicholson picked up the reins, and started for the fire. Some difference be tween this and Boston's crack company which is out of the engine house within nine seconds after an alarm is sounded.

During the past two years when Wollaston has had a fire, -and during that time it has had the largest fires in the city,there has never been a piece of apparatus or a stream of water on for from ten to fifteen minutes after an alarm was turned n. THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

The Stockholders Wish the American and British Governments to Be Interested. New York, April 20.—A special meeting of the stockholders of the Nicaragua Canal company will be held today at the office of T. M. Motley & Co. on a call by George C. Knight, who represents the English interests. The meeting will probably be an exciting one, as several sensa-tional propositions will be proposed to the stockholders.

The principal stockholders have urged Warner Miller to resign the presidency of the company, and that some definite action in regard to the change of management be taken. Miller has remained two years longer than his term and will be succeeded by Smith M. Weed of Platts-burg. Dissatisfied stockholders say the canal can be constructed for $65,000,000, and they will demand an investigation of the past management.

But small gains were made by any of the governments become jointly interested in the project by guaranteeing a subsidy of 2 day. It is said that the British government is in favor of this proposition and that Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassa-dor at Washington, is authorized to conduct the negotiation, which will event ually require a convention between the two governments to adjust the obstacle to such a scheme raised by the Bulwer

The stockholders assert that if the plan is carried out a syndicate will supply the money and guarantee the construction of the canal within six years.

THAT WHEAT DEAL,

Pardridge Lays the Blames of His Loss to a Brokerage Firm. CHICAGO, April 20.—Ed Pardridge is as chipper as could be expected of a man who had lost something like $500,000, but has saved nearly $1,000,000, which he ex-

THE GOLD QUESTION.

Secretary Carlisle Encouraged by Recent Favorable Symptoms.

A Radical Reduction of the Tariff Looked For.

Washington, April 20 .- "The free gold in the treasury is $1,176,000," said Secretary condition of the treasury. This is an increase of more than $500,000 since Tuesday and indicates the treasury as recuperating better than has been generally known, for the amount is not fully reflected in the secretary would not indicate what he purshould consume all his free gold and leave the gold supply in the treasnry in even a worse condition than at present. He said:

"I am not proclaiming what my policy will be until the issue squarely presents itself. I am disposed to wait and meet the emergency when it arises." It is fairly evident that the secretary is encouraged by more favorable symptoms the past few days, and has hopes that the scare is over. It is hoped at the treasury department that the gold situation has again passed through another acute stage, and that at least, temporarily, there will be after this week a cessation of foreign gold demands.

The increase of free gold yesterday was partly secured from Philadelphia and was further swelled by Assistance From the West. It is the aim of the department to accumulate sufficient gold before Saturday, to meet exports on that day out of the free gold balance and thus postpone the decision of the question of a change of policy.

The department says that sub-treasurers have not yet been ordered to cease pay ment of silver notes in gold, and that nothing of this sort was to be done in advance of actual emergency; but there is reason to believe that steps of this sort have been determined on and, perhaps, initiated, though it is yet in an informal stage. An abstract of reports made to the comptroller of the currency, showing the Condition of the National Banks at the close of business on Monday, March 6, shows that at that time the resources of all the national banks included $99,837,-235 in gold coin, $69,198,790 in gold treasury certificates and $4,939,000 in gold clearing house certificates.

Representative McMillan of Tennessee one of the leaders on the ways and means committee, when asked yesterday about stopping gold payments on silver notes,

"The secretary of the treasury has a per-fect right to use his discretion whether he shall redeem the treasury notes in gold or silver. The law provides that they shall be redeemed in coin, and, as a matter of convenience to some people, they have heretofore been redeemed in gold coin, but if it does not suit the convenience of the government to pay in gold then

A Successful Oil Well.

PORTLAND, Ind., April 20.-What operators claim to be the largest oil well ever drilled in Indiana was completed in the Camden field on the Mart Johns farm. It is doing 1000 barrels a day, and there are indications of it being an even better producer than that. The Manhattan Oil com. pany's well, only 600 feet away, is a dry Coffee Brokers Frightened. NEW YORK, April 20.-The coffee bro kers believe other failures will follow that of Barr & Co., and before the opening of the Coffee Exchange yesterday all were afraid to operate or to accept any orders. Frederick T. Sharman, assignee of the Barr & Co. house, hopes to have a statement of the assets and liabilities soon.

Mrs. Graves Visits Her Husband. DENVER, April 20.-Mrs. Dr. T. Thatcher Graves arrived yesterday from Providence. She was met at the station by her husband. They went to the home of Judge Macon, Dr. Graves' lawyer, where Mrs. Graves will stay while here. The meeting between the husband and wife was very iffectionate, but not demonstrative.

STRIKERS RETURNING.

The King of Belgium in Favor of Universal Suffrage.

BRUSSELS, April 20 .- Most of the strikers have resumed work, although there are many who are not yet satisfied. The vote of the chamber of deputies does not go far enough for these men, for, while it nominally grants universal suffrage, it permits plural voting based upon the extent of one's possessions. Many extremists here say that the strikers, emboldened by their success, will shortly demand the further concession of a "single suffrage," such as prevails in the United States. There are not wanting signs which indicate that the fire is only smouldering.

This makes the condition extremely critical, for if by any combination of circumstances, the Belgian government should be overthrown, even conservative statesmen admit that there would be seri-Carlisle yesterday, when asked by the ous danger of a general continental Euro-American Press representative as to the pean war with France and Germany as the first parties involved in the struggle for the possession of Belgium.

Reports which have come in indicate that the strike was much more serious and cost more lives and wounds than has been generally stated. The king is in favor department's books at this time. The with the populace. His often expressed views on the question of universal suffrage posed to do in case the gold exports have made him popular, but the extreme labor leaders say that no feeling of friend ship shall deter them from achieving their ultimate object.

One alarming fact developed by the strike is that the Belgian officials would be unable to cope successfully with a well armed and tolerably organized mob. A dispatch from Mons says that two strikers have just died there, making the total of seven in that small place.

NOT IMPRISONED.

Tho Duchess of Sutherland Exempt Fron Arrest the Papers Say.

LONDON, April 20.-It transpired yester day that the report given out that the Dowager Duchess of Sutherland, who was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment in Halloway jail for contempt of court, had been driven in a carriage to the prison and locked up was erroneous.

After imposition of the sentence the dowager duchess obtained from Justice Jeaune, before whom the proceedings against her were taken, an order permitting her to go to a village near Windsor, with the understanding that she would surrender herself to the authorities yesterday. It is said that the dowager duchess was taken suddenly ill during the night. A physician was in constant attendance upon her until 7 o'clock, when her condition was such that he summoned another doctor to consult on the case.

Some newspapers argue that in sentence ing the dowager duchess, Judge Juene exceeded his authority, and point out in support of their contention that a peeress is exempt from arrest in a civil case. This gives color to a statement made that the conditional order against her had not been withdrawn. Justice Juene is consulting with his colleagues on the quesion. On the other hand it is contended that the offense with which the dowager duchess is charged, the burning of a paper onfided to her for inspection, is a criminal one, in which event, according to the law, washer woman is the equal of a peeress.

THE BEHRING SEA.

Mr. Carter Claims That the Seals Are Our Private Property.

Paris, April 20 .- J. C. Carter, American unsel in the Behring sea court of arbitraion, continued his argument yesterday, reerring again to his regard for Judge Dawon and denouncing the "2-penny" story. He claimed that the seals were private property when nourished and tended by man. He quoted cases in support of this ontention, and notably the case of Mor gan vs. the Earl of Abergavenny, which esulted in a decision that deer were private roperty, similarly to bees and swans, beng wild until cultured. The seals frequenting the Pribyloff islands were, Mr. Carter continued, guarded and cherished by the United States, and therefore a specie of husbandry was formed, giving a property right in the

The line of the arguments cited by Mr. Carter in support of the claim of American ownership in the seals was so intricate and technical that the president of the tribunal felt obliged frequently to interpose with questions.

Self-Denial of the Emperor.

BERLIN, April 20.-An act of Emperor William's was made public yesterday, which must have cost him much self-abnegation. A number of wealthy persons anxious to receive marks of the imperial approval, have offered to furnish the money to purchase the real estate for the enlargement of the grand plaza in front of the castle. This has been a pet scheme of the emperor's for a long time, but he concluded that it would be improper for him to accept the gift. Critical Condition of an Earl.

London, April 20.-Edward Henry Smith Stanly, 15th earl of Derby, has been prostrated by an attack of heart disease and his condition is critical. On account of his advanced age (67) it is feared that he may not recover. He has served in three cabinets, that of his father, Lord Beaconsfield and Mr. Gladstone. Lord Stanly of Preston, his brother, who is the present governor general of Canada, is his heir.

The Typhus Epidemic.

PARIS, April 20.—The influenza, shows to signs of diminishing. Lord Mowbray, who was visiting Paris, and the young Duchess De Polignac have died from the disease. Despite the official statements, too, that the typhus epidemic is confined to the prisons, the disease is favored by the prolonged drought and is undoubtedly spreading. The surgeon at the Hotel Dieu has succumbed to it.

CAPTURED BICYCLE.

Percy Terrell began to realize the foolshness of his act in sallying forth all by

The desert stretched on every hand until it was lost in the vast distance. The grassless, treeless hills seemed to heave to and fro under the hot sun like billows—a strange, spectral landscape. The previous morning Percy had started out on his wheel from The Needles, a town near the California and Arizona ine, intending to make the run to Barbazon in the desert, instead of waiting to take passage on the weekly stage. The distance was considerable, but he felt he ought to have no trouble in making it on is safety.

He had first fancied crossing the desert on a bicycle, and not all the dissuasions of his friends at The Needles had been sufficient to induce him to abandon the idea. He wished now he had paid some need to what had been told him.

He had dismounted for a rest and was sitting on a gravelly hillock. He unslung his water bottle and took a short pull at it. The water was warm and disgreeable, and worst of all it was alarmingly low, and he had no knowledge of how soon he might get more. He had missed the only spring in that section, and for all he knew there might not be | in it much to amuse him. It was really another on the entire Barbazon route. His progress had been slower than he ness. These Yumas would have had no had anticipated. The sand was so deep in places that wheeling was out of the question; so far the work had been extremely fatiguing instead of being an ex- skill at fault. What looked so easy ilarating exercise.

Soon he remounted and again set out in the direction indicated as the right one by the little pocket compass he had been houghtful enough to take. He would have felt better if there had been any way to determine the distance yet to be traversed. He hoped he would not be forced to make another night camp in the

As he set the wheels in motion he heard a singular clucking sound. Turning half around in the saddle, he saw three Indians rise from behind a low mound and | Percy reclined on the sand and pointing come running toward him. The sight almost took away Percy's breath. Although he knew at a glance they were Yumas and had been told that the Yumas were peaceably disposed, there was something in their bearing that filled him with fear. He felt even more nervous when he saw two others rise from another mound a short distance ahead and place themselves in a position | cycle Percy arose and walked toward it to intercept him.

He could not doubt that they had tolen on him while he rested and were now trying to hem in and capture him. Iy and saw that practically it was as good Why they should desire to do this he as if sound. Nevertheless he pointed to could not guess, but their actions did not | the twisted spokes as though the trouble look friendly.

The wheeling was fairly good at that point, and Percy sent the bicycle forward at a round gait and hoped he would elude or dash by the two Indians in front. As the bicycle obediently leaped ahead under the strong propulsion he began to feel sure he could do it. He swerved to the right as he neared the two Indians, and when they rushed in that direction, too, he gave a quick turn and sent the safety spinning away on a new tack. Meanwhile the three in the break past the line of lances and send rear were hurrying up with all their might and yelling in a manner to dis- Slowly he increased the circle, adding a concert the bravest, and the two in front now added their wild cries to the hideous sweep. Suddenly seeing an opening he "Yell away there, you red scoundrels!"

Percy shouted as with a spurt he sped by, beginning to feel he would make an easy escape. "Yell away there and catch me if you can." He had seen that none of them had toward him, and with a cry of fear bent down to escape it. The weapon had not been hurled at him, however. The wily Yuma had aimed at the forward spinning wheel of the safety. The blade of the lance passed between the spokes and downward into the sand, where it stood imbedded, the shaft between the spokes. One of the spokes had been broken and pitched headlong over the wheel into the sand. Before he could rise the Indian's hands held him in a vicelike grip.

Pleased grins rested on the ugly faces of the Yumas as they gathered around their captive and glanced from him to the injured bicycle.

'What do you want with me?" Percy demanded, struggling to a sitting posture and making a show of bravery. 'Why did you wreck my safety that way? I'll have you punished for it." The Indians chuckled with delight at

"Want to see um iron pony," one of them condescended to explair "Injun

Light dawned on Percy. These Yumas wanted the bicycle for their own use. Perhaps they had seen him wheeling around The Needles on it. If so, they probably had dogged him all the way. His spirit rose. He vowed he would thwart them. He saw that, though some of the spokes were ruined, the wheel was still strong enough to do good service. He got up and stepped nearer, as if to inspect the damaged wheel. A heavy hand fell on his shoulder, and he was drawn rather roughly back. "Injun ride um pony now! Mebba fittle white boy git hurt! Savvy?" Percy smiled against his will. Compared with these Yumas he had to confess he was a very "little white boy." All five were broad shouldered giants of fellows, with arms and legs like bronze beams and muscles that stood out in knotted rolls of strength. The Indian who had grasped Percy's shoulder stepped up to the overturned bicycle, drew out the shaft of the lance and swung himself awkwardly into the seat. The safety toppled over with him as soon as he tried to set his moccasined eet on the pedals. A laugh greeted his 'ailure, but a comrade came to his assistance, and the discomfited Yuma tried

He seemed to find it great fun to sit in the saddle and be wheeled about on the sand, but it was impossible for him to keep his seat and work the wheel without aid.

Another and another tried it, with no better success.

If the entire performance had not been so exasperating, Percy might have seen a most laughable exhibition of awkward trouble in mounting and riding the wildest pony that ever bounded across that desert, but here they found their proved to be entirely beyond them all.

Grunts of delight or derision arose at each failure, and when one of the fellows was shot head first into the sand and got up digging it out of his mouth and eyes and making a wry face the yells of his companions rose in an ecstatic chorus. They spent more than an hour in an

He examined the injured wheel leisurethe Yumas had experienced lay in them. The Yumas were watching him, and with evident suspicion. Some of them took up their lances and stationed themselves near, plainly to prevent any effort to escape. Percy mounted. At first he rode the bicycle round and round in a little circle, all the while causing it to wabble as if it were out of order. Under his indifference he was closely watching with a wildly beating heart for a chance to his wheel spinning across the sand. yard or two to its diameter at every made a sharp, quick turn, and throwing all his strength into the rush made & dash for liberty.

A threatening yell arose behind, and several lance points whizzed past him, but the haste with which they were thrown caused them to fly wildly. None touched him, and in another moment the young bicyclist had spun well out beyond the yelling circle and was flying with all speed across the gravelly waste, the Yumas in pursuit. Being splendid runners, the Indians crowded him uncomfortably close for the first 100 yards. At that point the earth became yet firmer, and with the advantage of this better roadway Percy rapidly increased the distance between himself and these very unpleasant acquaintances. They hung persistently on the track, however, though at the end of half an hour they had dwindled to mere specks. At the expiration of an hour they were no longer visible, and then Percy threw himself on the sand, feeling that he could not propel the safety another yard if his life depended on it. The Yumas did not come into view again, probably having abandoned the useless chase, and the next afternoon Percy reached Barbazon safe and sound. -John H. Whitson in New York Press.

NEW HAVEN, April 21.-Standing over the corpse of her husband, Frances Danyke Harris, a bride of eight months shot herself through the heart yesterday.

Eight months ago Miss Danyke, a beautiful society young woman of Brooklyn, betame Mrs. Oscar Harris, and the couple, after a short honeymoon, removed to this city, where the husband became the manager of Snow, Church & Co.'s commercial

Their life had been a happy till a fort night ago, when Mr Harris was attacked by an internal sickness, which at once assumed serious proportions. A council of physicians determined that the only means Of Saving Mr. Harris' Life was by a recourse to the operation of laporotomy. His young wife was made acquainted with the desperate nature of the operation. She answered: "Do the best you can for him, for if he dies, I shall die, too, for I believe were our positions transposed he would do the same for me.'

Early Wednesday, despite the efforts of his physicians, Harris died. His wife was nearly crazed with grief. She moaned and cried, and it was feared

It was evident to her friends that her heart was broken, and she was physically and mentally unable to bear up under her terrible bereavement. She cried almost constantly for her hus-

Edward Begor Sentenced to Imprison ment For Life by Judge Fessenden. SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 21.-Edward Begor at Greenfield retracted his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree in the killing of Mrs. Abigail Rogers at Farley station in Wendell last September. This is the result of a conference between District Attorney Aiken and Begor's counsel.

Back of this statement is a very dramatic story. The prisoner's counsel had secured sufficient evidence to probably secure his acquittal, only to find at the last moment months ago to a fellow prisoner in the jail, named William O. Taylor.

Taylor communicated his knowledge to Turnkey Richardson and Jailor Allen. It was then arranged that Boron about The Hartford Hod Carriers' The Hartford Hod peat the entire story to Taylor, and that | They now get $2.25 and work nine hours. Jailer Allen and Detective Munyan, un-known to Begor, should be outside his cell and hear the whole confession. The plan was for Begor to feign illness in order that Taylor might be assigned as his nurse. This was brought about.

Judge Fessenden sentenced Begor to imprisonment for life, the first day to be in solitary confinement.

Turned Up All Right. LYNN, Mass., April 21.-Another war "vet" who was supposed to have died on the field of battle has come to life again. He is Rufus F. Southworth. The supposition that he was killed was caused by the report in a Bangor, Me., paper that Mrs. Enoch Messenger of Presque Isle had in her possession a part of a Bible picked up by her husband, while engaged in picking up the dead at Cedar Creek during that engagement. He served in the army until July, 1864, and was then honorably discharged. He has been in the west up to two years ago. His mother who gave him the Bible is living here with her daughter.

MERIDIAN, Miss., April 21.-All along the route laid waste by the cyclone's fury stalks grim despair, and woe and want are depicted on each face. Where yesterday stood happy homes and fertile farming land, today is a blackened waste.

WIND AND RAIN. Severe Storms Extending From Dakota to

the Atlantic. NEW YORK, April 21.—The storm which has been raging was felt from South Da-kota to the Atlantic coast, sweeping across the lake region and as far south as Vir ginia. In the eastern portion of this dis trict heavy rains and high winds were the chief characteristics of the storm, while in the west heavy rain fell. - Along the coast it was, in consequence, thick, the wind high and the sea what seamen would were secretly married in Brockton, Dec. term a nasty one, with a strong northeast ern to back it. Around Cape Hatteras the storm was very severe, and the three caravels, the Mina, Pinta and Santa Maria, are suposed to be somewhere in that vicinity es corted by a Spanish fleet. This will give the models of the fleet in which the first great admiral crossed the Atlantic charce to show their seagoing qualities, as no place outside Hatteras, except perhaps the Bay of Biscay, can kick up a higher sea than prevailed there yesterday. Last night the wind off Hatteras, according to the meteorological bureau, was blowing 3 miles an hour, and a heavy rain was fall-ing. The wind was from the northeast and there was a heavy sea. The wind in New York last night was blowing 36 miles an hour, at Norfolk 32 miles, at Charleston 32 miles, at Boston 26, at Philadelphia 28 miles and at St. Louis 36 miles.

> Citizens Refused to Assist in Drawing Wagon to the Fire.

The hearing which was held by Mayor Fairbanks and Chief Ripley at Hose 2's house, Wollaston, on Thursday evening, 1871 to 1890 inclusive, against 19.66 for the rank of Randolph and Hyde Park are very for the purpose of correcting any defects in the branch of fire service in that ward, was largely attended by representative citizens and members of the Council. Hose 2 during the hearing came under fire and stood the ordeal well. Those who came to the hearing expecting to see a circus went away disappointed. It was shown that the members of Hose there and did good service. They did not report at the hose house in a body until roll call, because the regulations state explicitly that when an alarm of fire is rung in they shall "proceed promptly to fateful Thursday night the members, with the exception of Foreman Thomas, who went directly to the hose house, proceeded to the fire and did good work, thinking that they would soon be reinforced b their own line of hose.

Foreman Thomas waited for the horse some fifteen minutes and thinking that he was not coming ran to the fire and told the Chief that his wagon did not respond for want of a horse. Chief Ripley in the excitment did not understand him. Foreman Thomas did not realize this until some minutes after when he again repeated his story to the Chief, who immediately ordered him to summon such members of his company as he could find to have the wagon to the fire. The foreman testified, that, knowing the heft of the apparatus he called upon several citizens to assist him and his handful of men (five), and, with the exception of one-Councilman Sherman they all refused to render any aid. The wagon was started up the steep hill but had to be abandomed before it was half way up.

Mayor Fairbanks and Chief Ripley, after carefully listening to the testimony, agreed to accept Mr. Geo. Nickerson's proposition and build a stall for his horse in the hose house, and also a sleeping department in the hall. This will give Wollaston practically a permanent man and horse free of expense to the city. When it is carried out the question will be asked "how quick did Hose 2 make the time?" instead of "how long was it before Hose 2 got there." Councilman Federhen and Brown were present and took an active part in the

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

How to Get to It and the Sights on the Trip.

[Special Correspondence.] CHICAGO, April 13.—It will cost a dime or a nickel, just as you are inclined, to get from the business center of the city to the World's fair grounds, and nobody will be compelled to walk so long as they have the price in their pocket. According to our survey maps, it is a good seven miles from Marshall Field's big store to the nearest entrance gate of the big inclosure, and even our country friends, who cover a good many miles of ground between sunrise and sunset in plowing and harvesting times, wouldn't feel very much like rambling all over Jackson park after having indulged in a Ing moved an amendment, to add that all rights under the act shall be null and void if the road shall be sold or leased to any foreign correction. foreign corporation. I am but a recent convert to the belief that ample and sufficient provision for carrying World's fair sightseers to the grounds was within the bounds of possileasing to foreign corporations was adopted without a division. The bill was passed to all the more candor and heartiness. One bility, and so I give my testimony with evening a couple of months ago I stood at the corner of State and Madison streets while the big wholesale and retail dry goods stores were pouring out their tens of thousands of toilers and belated customers and watched with interest, not unmixed with anxiety, the frantic efforts of men and women and oys and girls to get sitting room or standing room or hanging room on the able trains as they turned the corner.

How they crushed and tore and minute or two at the gates of Fairmount park, while heavily laden trains on the Pennsylvania and Reading loops were performing a similar service in the rear of that great breathing space, and comparing the two experiences I remarked to myself, while the throng grew bigger and bigger: "If this is the situation now, what is it likely to be a couple of months hence, when there are half a million or maybe more strangers in town? What,

But here in Chicago we are accusa couple of months, and so it is not to one. be wondered at that today, when we are almost under the shadow of that 1st of May that is hereafter to live in history, we find to our surprise and gratification that we can carry something like 125,-000 people to Jackson park every hour and bring them back again. That means a half million or more every day before dinner, and as many more between dinner and supper, with a margin allowed for those who, now having had enough of which are illustrated, Current Literature of sightseeing in the daytime, are inclined to take in the attractions of the Midway plaisance by electric light. That is what may be termed "ample facili-

First and foremost : the steam railroad service of the Illinois regard to the Chilian refugees, whom Central road. This will furnish accommodation to 24,000 passengers per hour, or nearly a quarter of a million in a day of 10 hours. To put it in another way. trains of 10 coaches each, and every coach equal to 100 passengers, will b started every 21 minutes during the day when necessity demands. This is by all Minister Egan was instructed that he odds the quickest and most pleasant way of reaching the fair grounds. On the one side is Lake Michigan, dotted over with craft under steam and sail, as pretty a sight, if the wind is light, as you have ever gazed upon. On the other side you catch a glimpse of the Richelieu, and the Victoria, and the Auditorium, and other of our aristocratic hostelries. Farther south as we flash by we get a momentary idea of the exteriors of some of the palaces occupied by Chicago's self made men. We stop for a moment at Thirty-fifth street and gaze upon the towering shaft which stands as a memorial to Stephen A. Douglas, the "little giant" of the west, and in the crypt beneath which rests all insulation of the electric wires which that is mortal of the once famous states-supplied the electric lights. The electrician man. Another mile or two, and we find man. Another mile or two, and we find who put in the plant was arrested, but, at the landscape dotted with pretty little cottages and neatly trimmed lawns that testify to the fact that Chicago is rapidly becoming a "city of homes," and then, almost before we know it, the conductor shouts "South park!" and our journey is at an end. It takes half an hour longer to go by cable, but whether you take the Wabash and Cottage Grove or the State street line the trip is one of interest. On the former you pass huge structures devoted both to residence and business purposes stand upon ground that a year ago or less was either a vacant lot or occupied by a vacant cottage. If you have never been rushed through the air at the rate of a mile a minute, you can have a little experience in that line, for our pioneer elevated road now runs to within a few blocks of the fair grounds. Last, but not least, if you Mayor Harrison has ordered all gambling are fond of sailing o'er the deep you can take your choice of a steamboat carry-A large body of outlaws are sacking ing 1,000 passengers or a sailboat carry ing 20 and find yourself put ashore in the very heart of the fair. In this way an Indian takes a "Turkish" or a "Russian" bath; They dig a hole in the earth, in which they lay stones, and upon which they build a fire, heating the stones to a red heat; they then carefully remove the coals; cutting a number of saplings they stick one end in the ground, bend them over and place the other end also in the ground, these extend over the hot stones in the shape of a half loop. (Wer these poles or hoops the Indians place skins of animals or blankets. If the "Russian" or vapor bath is desired, they then throw water upon the hot rocks, thus generating steam. Those destring the vapor bath crawl underneath. After the pores of the skin are opened and they profusely perspire they crawl out and another Indian dashes buckets of cold water over them, or they plunge into a near by stream. THE GOLD QUESTION.

Secretary Carlisle Discusses the Present Financial Situation.

THERE IS GOLD ENOUGH

In the Country to Meet All Requirements.

WASHINGTON, April 21.-Secretary Carlisle has prepared a statement defining the policy of the treasury department in the present financial situation. Mr. Carlisle calls attention to the various laws on the Is exhausted the reserve fund can only be given for this purpose. used for the redemption of greenbacks. He shows that the law gives him discretionary power to redeem treasury notes of 1890 in either gold or silver. With the supply of free gold exhausted, he will redeem said notes in silver if neces-

The secretary says: In the exercise of discretionary power conferred upon the secretary of the treasury by the act of July 14, 1890, he has been paying gold for the coin treasury notes issued for the purchase of silver bullion, and he will continue to do so as long as he has gold law-fully available for the purpose.

Under this process the government has been and is now paying gold for silver bullion and storing the silver in its vaults, where it is as useless for any purpose of circulation or redemption as iron, lead or any other commodity

The government, in the first place, issues a coin treasury note in payment for silver bullion, and then the coin treasury note is presented at a sub-treasury and the Gold Is Paid Out For It;

so that the effect is precisely the same as if the gold were paid directly for the silver in the first instance. About $800,000 of the gold which was paid out by the sub-treasury last Tuesday for shipment abroad was paid in these coin treasury notes.

No order had been made to stop the payment of gold on these notes, nor has any such order been ordered. The purpose of the government to preserve its own credit unimpaired and maintain the parity of the two metals by all lawful means will not be abandoned under any circumstances. In view of the existing situation, the only

Question For Consideration is as to the measures that ought to be adopted to insure the accomplishment of these purchases, and upon this question there is of course room for wide differences of opinion. The total stock of gold coin and gold bullion now in this country, including what is held by the treasury, as well as what is held by the banks and individuals, amounts to about $740,000,000.

When I came into the treasury department on the 7th day of March the amount of free gold on hand had been reduced to $987,000, but by arrangements with west-ern banks it was increased until on the first of April it amounted to nearly $8,000,-000. Heavy shipments began to be made and two days ago we had about $40,000, but now it amounts to $885,000 after deducting what had been taken from the subtreasury yesterday for shipment.

There is gold enough in the country to neet all the requirements of the situation, and if all who are really interested in maintaining a sound and stable currency would assist the secretary of the treasury to the extent of their abilities the existing ties would be removed Labor Parades Prohibited.

BERLIN, April 21.-It was announced a few days ago that the police authorities of Altona had ordered the labor leaders of annual parade on May 1. At the same time it was stated that the Hamburg authorities would permit the parade in that city. Since then, however, Altona's example has been followed in many other cities, and on May 1, in practically the whole of Germany, the watchword will be, Great parades are prohibited."

Did Frank Chandler Try to Rob William Warren

OR WAS IT HIS BROTHER?

They Look So Much Alike That Police Are Puzzled.

LYNN, Mass., April 22.--Because Frank M. Chandler, the ex-police officer of Malden, bears a strong resemblance to his half brother, Isaiah H. Hunnewell, alias "Yellowstone Jack, the Cowboy," he is made to suffer at the hands of the law. Chandler and Horatio G. Day, the colored crook, are now in durance in this city on the charges of breaking and entering and assault with intent to rob William Warren, who was supposed to have $40,000 in his

It was not until "Hopper" Tyler and "Black Jack" Harris, the ex-convicts, came here yesterday, to appear against Chandler and Day, was this mistake dis-covered, so they claim. It so happened that Hunnewell, who has long locks of hair, was in the police station at the time, and they told Inspector Nelson of the Lynn force that he and Day did the job,

UNLUCKY FISHERMEN

Made Penniless by a Furious Storm Around Cape Cod.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., April 22.-A very heavy gale swept over Cape Cod from the southeast and gave Provincetown harbor a raking, strewing the shore with wrecks of fishing boats and dories. The Whistler, a small schooner, parted her moorings and dashed into Old Colony wharf, staving in her sides, bow and deck. She will be a total loss. Schooner Rover also came ashore and broke in two parts and went to pieces.

The sloop Augustus Yates parted her chains and dashed into Hilliard's wharf. She stove in both sides and carried away her bowsprit. She will be a total loss The sloop Hersey D. Taylor, at Knowles' wharf, has a hole in her side. The schooner Panther carried away her bowsprit and rail on both sides. The schooner Arequippa parted her fastening and swung on to the beach.

Yacht Tillie is ashore near Cook's wharf. She will be a total loss. Schooner Lady Lovett dashed into Smith's wharf. She will probably be a total loss. Schooner Charles P. Barritt is ashore, but will float all right. Schooner Addison Center dragged her anchors and touched bottom at low tide. Several other small boats are ashore uninjured, also about 20 dories smashed to

These losses, coming as they do light at the commencement of the fishing season, are particularly hard on the fishermen, as in several cases the lost property is all they had in the world with which to earn a living. Nickerson's, Small's, Spark's and Chase's wharves also sustained some dam-

have prepared a host of amendments which will be tabled immediately. A section of the Liberals are urging Mr. Gladstone to accept an amendment allowing all Irish members to vote on all questions at Westminster instead of trying to make an invidious distinction between imperial and other business. They argue that this course will remove the greatest objection to the bill without any great risk, except to hasten home rule for Scotland and Wales.

[Special Correspondence.] Washington, April 13.-Mrs. Cleveland gives two receptions each week in the blue room of the executive mansion, and very popular receptions they are. They are not public levees, and in order to be admitted one must have an invitation. One of the peculiarities of Washington social life is that here people openly ask for cards of invitation, and four-fifths of the ladies who attend Mrs. Cleveland's receptions have sought and in many cases begged for the little cards which alone give entree. Every week Bissell, wife of the postmaster general. Willie G. Chubbuck, hundreds and thousands of applications for audience are denied. Mrs. Cleveland Cleveland, and it took her nearly an Miss Cora Dyer, rightly assumes that she is not required by her position to submit to the inspection of mere curiosity seekers. At least she is not required to do so at this time. Naturally there are people who do not approve Mrs. Cleveland's present policy. They say she is the wife of the president, and it is as much her duty to see all callers as it is her husband's. These are the same sort of people who go to the White House with a certain sense of TO LET,—On Gay street, house of six rooms and barn. Inquire at No. 5 Hancock Court.

No. 2 House With a certain sense of proprietorship. Because it is public property they cannot see why every room in the house is not thrown open for their inspection. for their inspection. They would like particularly to enter Mr. Cleveland's private apartments, to go into the kitchen, the linen press and to be permitted to pluck flowers in the conservatory. A few days ago I overheard a woman expostulating with an usher because he would not admit her to the blue room and to the main corridor of the house while Mrs. Cleveland was holding one of her receptions. In vain did the usher explain that his orders were imperative, and finally he was compelled to say that Mrs. Cleveland was entitled to some rights of privacy in her own house.

"Her own house indeed!" exclaimed the woman, with a toss of her head. "Perhaps Mrs. Cleveland thinks she owns the place just because her husband has been elected president. The people of the United States own this house, sir, and I'd like to know by what right the people are denied admittance to the parlors! It's a perfect shame! Many such unreasonable women go to the White House in the course of a week. They do not go into the private rooms, or the conservatory, or the dining room, or the kitchen, but they do manage to make more or less miserable the lives of the poor ushers. The people who visit the executive mansion have to be constantly watched on account of their craze for souvenirs or relics. Women carry cissors with them in order to snip a piece out of a curtain if they get a chance. Once a woman was seen cutting a bit of ribbon from Mrs. Cleveland's gown. When detected, she tried to pass the matter off as a joke, but quickly disappeared. Some of these people manage to get invitations to Mrs. Cleveland's receptions. In the blue room they distinguish themselves by standing as close to Mrs. Cleveland as they possibly can, staring at her and listening to every word she utters. They get in the way of new arrivals, and by their piggish manners make themselves generally disagreeable. At first Mrs. Cleveland tried to manage her little receptions alone, but she soon found it necessary to call in the assistance of one of the White House staff. Now Usher Dubois stands near her constantly, presents the ladies who are not personally known to the hostess, and in his quiet way contrives to prevent too much crowding about her. It is wonderful Gresham: "Your son knows every po-

BACKED BY DEMOCRATS.

Comments on the Position Assumed Secretary Carlisle

Washington, April 22.—The comments indulged in by leading Democratic senators and representatives who are in the city, on the financial statement of Secretary Carlisle, are remarkable for the unanimity of sentiment in its favor from persons differing in matters of detail. Concerning gold and silver the silverites main tain that the secretary leans toward the use of silver for redemption purposes. On the other hand, the gold-standard ad rocates hold that it means that the secretary intends to adhere to their views. The ecretary was asked whether anything additional was to be said on this subject. His reply was that "The statement covers all that I have to say at the present time.' There is one fact, however, which is now ery clear. He does not intend to redeem he treasury notes in silver. The impres sion has been prevalent both here and in New York, that when the $100,000,000 gold would redeem these notes in silver instead

If there ever was any such purpose, President Cleveland settled that matter in his conference with Secretary Carlisle, when the latter submitted his proposed statement. Representative Springer also onfirms this construction of the meaning of the secretary's statement.

When the terrific shock came on Mon-day last the city of Zante was practically vholly destroyed. There are not in the city 50 houses that are safe for the people to live in. ## AMONG THE MISSING.

Sing Sing's Escaped Murderers Not Yet Captured.

FIVE KEEPERS SUSPENDED,

Pending an Investigation by Prison Authorities.

SING SING, April 22.—Prison keepers are still scouring the country for Thomas Pallister and Frederick W. Roehl, the condemned murderers who escaped from Sing Sing prison yesterday morning and who reserve limit was reached, the secretary are at large. Each man is dressed in citizen's clothes and each has a revolver. Their capture may not be effected without bloodshed. The escape was not discovered until the relief death watch appeared at the prison to relieve Keepers Hultz and Murphy, who comprised the night death watch. Hultz and Murphy were locked in the cells which had been vacated by Palister and Roehl.

Hultz and Murphy state that when Hultzbrought Pallister's supper to him, at about 9 o'clock Thursday night, Pallister threw a handful of pepper in the eyes of Hultz and then knocked him down. Pallister took the keys of the cells from him and also his revolver and then dragged him into the cell, after which he secured the door. Pallister then unlocked the eell door of Roehi, and when Keeper Murbhy, Hultz's partner in the night death watch, came in, he was surprised by the wo desperadoes.

Relieved of His Revolver and Keys and locked in another cell. Pallister and Roehl then unlocked the cells of con-demned murderers Carlyle W. Harris, Osmond, the wife murdeger, and Geoghegan, the Brooklyn murderer. Pallister and Roehl invited these three men to go with them, but they refused. Harris gained by escape, and it is believed that refusing to take advantage of the oppor-tunity to escape will have some weight with the governor in deciding his applicaion for commutation of senten

After Pallister and Roehl had got rough the skylight of the death-house, they gained the roof and leaped to the ground. There are no guards outside the prison at night, and the two murderers ison grounds to the shore, where they tained a, rowboat, in which boat they are supposed to have rowed across the iver to Nyack or Haverstraw.

After hearing all the particulars Warden Brown suspended Keepers Hulze, Murphy, John Maher and Flynn. Maher and Flynn were supposed to be doing guard duty in and about the death house. They say that hey did not hear anything of the escape till early in the morning, and did not hear Murphy and Hulze calling for help. This regarded by the prison officials as strange, and the conduct of Maher and Flynn will be thoroughly investigated. Was It a "Put Up Joh?"

NEW YORK, April 22.- The police of this ity are on the watch for Pallister and Roehl, the condemned murderers who escaped from Sing Sing. There was some talk in the district attorney's office, when the news of the escape was heard, about a would use to liberate the murderer. There at Sing Sing. E. T. Goldberg, who de fended Roehl, did not seem very much sur-prised. He did not think Pallister had nything to do with the making out of the

"Roehl," said Goldberg, "is the smartest nan ever tried for murder. He speaks half a dozen languages and writes a beautiful letter. The idea of escape, I think, had been in his head for some little time. On April 12 I took his brother Frank up to see him. Frank worked in Costa Ric and came here on the steamship Braunschweiger, working his way as an assistant to the steward, especially to see his brother. He had with him about $7000.

"I had the greatest trouble getting him nto the prison. The warden searched him throughly. The same two guards watched with us during our talk. The thing that surprises me is that these guards, who were men of iron nerve, permitted themselves to be so overcome. They were also

Most Negligent During the Interview between the two brothers. When Frank learned that one of the guards spoke German, he began talking to the condemned stood. The guards tried at first to stop this, but they kept it up nevertheless. "Frank Roehl had two large-sized pho ographs in his pocket which he gave his brother after one had been examined. The second picture was not examined. It was large enough to hold a quantity of pepper, ney or anything else. Roehl's brother left the city after he saw him, on the Braunchweiger, for the other side, and should arrive there today. Roehl killed his friend, Frank Paulsen grand army man, in a horrible manner, n the latter's room, at 139 Hester street. Pallister murdered Adam Kane, a promnent policeman, last April.

Nyack Folks Hadn't Heard the News. NYACK, N. Y., April 22.—It is believed that Thomas Pallister was seen in this region, and the woods in this vicinity are being scoured for him. TWO FAMOUS CASES Discussed by a Boston Divine In a Sermon.

HE PLEADS FOR JUSTICE.

A Comparison Between Lizzie Borden and Asa Potter.

Boston, April 24.-At the Fourth Pres prelude "A Plea For Lizzie Borden and For Justice." He said:

"The law presumes a person innocent until proven guilty. Look at this in the light of two facts. Last evening's papers report to us that an ex-president of a which time he has been at large, having neighbors have watched him day and been proven guilty of criminal negligence, has at last been sentenced.

"This man, who has had given into his bands millions of dollars in trust in relation to these trusts, according to Judge Putnam, has knowingly and willfully violated the laws of our land. I said above 'criminal negligence', but this is more than that. This man certified to checks which had no security behind them, knowingly and willfully, according to the finding of the court. He has received sentence, which is that he pay a fine of $1000 and serve 60 days in Cambridge jail. It is not for me to say whether this exbank president is guilty or not of this henious crime, but if it be true as found that he is guilty of the crime alleged and the court so affirmed, then to a layman it seems that this sentence is a farce and furnishes no protection whatsoever to the public against similiar criminalities. "It goes further than that. It furnishes more ground for the oft repeated assertion of the public that there is no longer any true relation of crime and penalty. A petty thief receives the great penalty; a great thief a petty penalty. Woe be to society when the suspicion becomes well founded that justice is dead. All nature has ever demanded a fearful reckoning day for bankrupt justice. About Lizzie Borden.

"This is one fact. Here is the other: "In the jail at Taunton there is a young lady named Lizzie Borden. She has been an inmate of the jail five months. She has question, and has no hesitation in expressbeen in close confinement. She has been bail. Unlike the ex-bank pres dent, who was given his freedom after the jury brought in the verdict of guilty and again after he had been sentenced by Judge Putnam, all the freedom she has known is the freedom of the stone pavement, about 25 feet of the corridor in front

"She has not been proven guilty of any crime. Before the law she is as innocent as a babe in the cradle. But, while in the eyes of the same law the ex-bank president is guilty, as innocent she has already suffered incarceration for six months longer than the time for which he has been sentenced. By the process of the law

Fact Has Distanced Theory long way. Innocence has suffered four times the penalty of the guilty, and still before the guilty in the eyes of the law there is more freedom, while before the innocent there is more incarceration.

"Where has justice gone? And this is 19th century! Where is the trouble? At whose feet lies the blame for this state of affairs? Why has Lizzie Borden been imprisoned so long without the opportunity of a trial? If, after the trial, she shall have been proven innocent of the awful crime alleged, can the commonwealth of Massachusetts atone for what it has compelled her to suffer? Like the stain of blood on the hand of Macbeth, no amount of washing will wipe away this blot. I want to put in a plea for an innocent person tonight. I do not affirm that Lizzie Borden is innocent. I know nothing about the truth of the matter, though I have an the work of firebugs. I only argue this on the ground which the law presumes in the case and therefore my plea is for justice in behalf of one, who, in the eyes of the law, is innocent. I do not plead for her release. I do not condemn either the district attorney or the attorney general. Perhaps they have both done the best they could in the case. One is away for his health and the other cannot go on with the case alone. But my whole plea is For a Speedy Trial. "There is no reason why those charged with crime should suffer endlessly in jail while waiting for a too tardy trial. There is no reason why such should suffer the just desserts of the criminal, when there is even a possibility of their innocence. He says that there have been differences between Secretary Carlisle and himself over the issue of bonds to replenish the depleted treasury gold reserve, but that those differences have been adjusted and that no bonds will

He says that the gold reserve will be used to meet all demands made upon the treasury until the reserve is reduced to $40,000,000, if necessary, and that the issu ance of bonds will be made only as a last Plain and Fresco resort. He says that the present condition of the treasury is due to the "pernicious legislation" over which the Democratic party had no control, and that by careful administration of the finances, the treas ury will soon be on a sound basis again. He declares that there is no occasion for alarm.

THE LOST KISS.

I put by the half written poem, While the pen, idly trailed in my hand, Writes on, "Had I words to complete it, Who'd read it, or who'd understand?" But the little bare feet on the stairway, And the faint, smothered laugh in the hall, And the eerie low lisp on the silence Cry up to me over it all.

So I gather it up—where was broken The tear faded thread of my theme, Telling how, as one night I sat writing, A fairy broke in on my dream— A little inquisitive fairy— My own little girl, with the gold Of the sun in her hair and the dewy Blue eyes of the fairies of old.

'Twas the dear little girl that I scolded-"For was it a moment like this," I said, "when she knew I was busy To come romping in for a kiss? Come rowdying up from her mother, And clamoring there at my knee For 'one 'ittle kiss for my dolly And one 'ittle uzzer for me!'

FEMININE TRAITS.

Jim Hardin, with much deliberation. drew toward him the tobacco can and

'is queer cattle—yes, they be. A feller thinks he has th'r p'ints an mebbe keeps on thinkin so fer awhile. Then he finds out all of a suddint th't what he thinks he knows and what he don't know is more alike th'n what he thinks he knows and what he does know. "One woman ain't no more like 'nother woman th'n I be like that—waal, like that stove, f'rinstance. 'Cause why? 'Cause th'r p'rverse. They be, an they cain't help it, none whatever. Moreovermore, they don't wanter help it-that's th' p'rversity of 'em. W'y, ye never seen no woman that'd be 'r do 'r think like 'n other woman ef she hung fer not doin it. Th'r' all 'like-all right 'nough in them respecks, but not any more. Ye e'en pick out y'r female wharever ye please, an I don't keer ef she's th' mos' commonest, ev'ryday sort o' critter ye cain't find 'nother one wi' th' same markins. Th' Lord A'mighty didn't make 'em that way no mor'n all cattle is Shorthorns, and I've saw a lot.

"I was jes' thinkin of a couple o' cases "Up in Dakoty I knowed a feller th't hed a reg'lar thor'ughbred wife. His name was Sammis, an he kep' store up to Bessemer, also sellin wagons an grain. He was a fine feller, this Sammis, an nothin was too good fer him, not even his woman, an they was reg'lar stuck on each other. Mis' Sammis had all they that the Jewish paper, especially those of fer, includin warious trips t' Omahaw doves that sits on th' fence b' th' stable. They'd been hitched seven 'r eight year, seen, an still folks used t' say allers how much them Sammis did sot by each other. It beat the dooce sure, an might've went on fer all time, ef Sammis hadn't gone an got inter trouble. "Come one year bizness was slack at the store—cash bizness, I mean—an Sammis, he let out a heap of stock on time, fer grub stakes an th' like. But he'd likewise b'en playin poker some, as uzhal, and was shy fer stuff w'en one day some o' th' people he was owin called fer him t' settle up. He'd b'en borryin dust fr'm the c'lection he'd made fer some of 'em, 'xpectin t' pay up right soon, but he didn't c'nect proper, an they sinched 'im. Ev'rybody at Bessemer took a hand-'xcept a few o' them th't c'd 've helped him most, an oughter've did it-an tried to help Sam out, but feelin innercent Sam, he wouldn't have it none whatever an tol them eastern cusses th't, seein they didn't wanter wait till fall an git a fa'r squar up, they c'd go t' the devil, an he'd go t' jail. So they sen's im up two years beltin rock in th' pen. We'd 've got a gang t'gether an took im 'way from the offusers, but Sam sent us word he didn't want nothin o' th' sort-he was goin t' take his sassyfras like a man, an he's done it.

"Now don't think for a minute th't all this time Mis' Sammis wan't doin nothin. Great Enoch! that woman hustled like a major-wint t' the men as was sinchin Sam an begged an pleaded an might 've got 'em t' give in ef Sam hadn't been so uppish with 'em. She looked jes' orful durin th' trial, an took on tur'ble w'en th' jedge sent'nced Sam. She didn't look like she uster fer a long time, jes' got paler an more peakedlike, an folks thought she was goin t' die off sure. 'Bout three months later she went t' see Sam, an Sam, he tol me 'bout it a rouple years ago. They had a real scene, jamful o' tears an real spoony love, an Sam wanted t' know ef it wouldn't be better fer her t' get a divorce, 'cause he was a disgrace t' her. Then o' course she falls on 'is neck an weeps a hull lot, an sez as how she'll stick t' him till th' ol Harry goes into th' ice cream bizness,

'r somethin like that. "An, gents, it wa'n't three months onger b'fore she gits her doggone devorce an splices with a baldheaded of duffer f'm Pennsylvany th't'd come to Dakoty t' git unhitched hisself! Oh, it was tough, I tell ye. Sammis, he's out how, doin good bizness, an got his kidsat Bessemer. too, b'gosh-an also behavin hissel. But he was considerable broke up w'en th' woman shuck 'im."

Hero Jim paused to refill his pipe, and we took advantage of the opportunity briefly to debate the question as to whether or not Mrs. Sammis was justified in oing as she did. Jim then proceeded: "Th' other case I was thinkin of is diff'runt a hull lot. Th' woman in it was bout th' same caliber as t'other one, I reckon, but more perseverin. "It was up in Dakoty, too, this here case; over 't Gilman, 'bout 20 miles fr'm Bessemer. In sheruff then an knowed ev'rybody in th' blame county. B'sides th' gyurl was a sorter relation o' mine, how I came t' know s'much about it.

"This here gyurl was a dandy high stepper. Her ol man was well fixed an she'd went t' school t' St. Louis an was purty permickety. Blame fine gyurl, stunnin purty an nice, but persnickety, 'cause some o' th' finest and best fixed boys in th' county wanted 'er, an she turned up her nose at th' hull bilin. Treated 'em all nice an all that, but treated 'em alike, w'ich was onpleasant fer th' boys.

"The trouble was, I reckon, she'd be'n readin a hull lot o' blame trash, an 'xpected some prince was comin'long t offer hisself, wich did happen, only he wa'n't no prince, 'xcept, mebbe, 'cordin her notion. It was a blame dood fr'm somewhere east th't struck town an got a job 't th' Cleveland smelter keepin time—a feller named 'r callin hisself Ward Fortescue.

"He hadn't hardly struck th' camp b'fore him an Mame meets each other an is mashed, most immejit. He was one o' these slim, purty ducks th't c'n sing lots an put up a real smooth talk, an make book love—one o' these sweet warts th't a feller aches t' spank an kick. s'pose it's women's natur' t' git stuck on 'em, 'cause they allus do.

"Anyhow, Fortescue, as he called his self, wades right in an rushes Mame fer all he was worth, an Mame she liked it all right, so 'twa'n't long 'fore she up an tells her folks th't him and her is goin t' git spliced. The ol lady was tickled lots, 'cause Fortescue had lied t' her consid'ble 'bout his folks an how rich they was, an so on; but th' ol man kicked right smart, tellin Mame th't Mister Dood had got t' cough up his papers an show his hand, likewise givin Smith names of people they c'd write to fer recommends

"Mame, as I said b'fore, had sperrits herself, an she kicked hard, sayin she was of age an her own boss, an c'd do as she pleased; but th' ol gent got hot in the collar an tol her t' shet up, w'ich she done, keepin up heaps o' thinkin all th'

One cannot turn away from Chinese art objects-porcelain particularlywithout a deep impression of the dignity and value of their "solid colors." Many attempts have been made by European manufacturers to imitate them, but without success. The attempt to reproduce t'ae sang de bœuf, or "bullock's blood," cost and Englishman $30,000 before he abandoned the effort in despair.

The Chinese themselves have always set the highest value on their achievements in this line. For a long time they refused to part with the choicer examples of sang de boouf "coral," "peachblow" and crushed strawberry, and it is only in recent years that the "foreign devils" have been able to obitain them. The objects have no other decoration than that of a single color, ranging from darkest to lightest shades-from black, deep red, the darkest blue or green, the most vivid orange, to pallest pink or violet or delicate canary. It is because we have in them the perfection of color united with an antique simplicity of form that their art value is so great. - Carpet and Uphol-

A Young Man's Awful Death. Mr. Alexander Belliveau of Lower

Town has received information from Michigan that his son was eaten by wolves a few days ago. The unfortunate young man was foreman of a gang working on the construction of a railway in the northern part of the state. He and a friend while out hunting were attacked by a band of wolves, and although they discharged their rifles into the pack the wolves overpowered them. Belliveau's companion climbed a tree to escape them, and from there he saw his companion torn to pieces by wolves at the foot of the tree on which he was perched. For several hours the wolves kept around the tree and did not leave until a number of men from the camp came and drove them away .- Cor. To-

The constant aim of surgery is to reduce the rate of mortality in certain dangerous operations and with this ob ject experiment is going on all the while These experiments are often continued for a long period of time upon the dead body before being once tried upon a living subject. This was the case with a new operation which was tried for the first time in this city. Decidedly Considerate.

In one respect, at least, all applicants for public offices are treated alike by President Cleveland, and that is the reception by them of an answer to their petitions.
To every application that is received at the White House a neat type-written reply, signed by the private secretary, is returned. This much consideration is considerably more than that vouchsafed 20 years and less ago, when the letters of the great majority of the applicants were thrown into the aste basket, and only a few were kept to which the executive gave serious consideration. Visitors to the official portion of the White House observe great stacks of letters, most of them applications for office, and a force of clerks is kept constantly employed in directing replies. The number of applicants for office is much greater than it was four years ago.

Nothing Surprises Chicagoans. "The people of Chicago since the fair be gan have become so used to big things that othing can now create a sensation there, said Assistant Secretary Willets yester-day. He had only a short time before returned from the fair grounds, where he spent over a week performing his duties as chairman of the board of government exhibits. "The great Krupp gun," he continued, "which would have caused the whole country here to turn out to see it ttracted no attention when it was unloaded in Chicago. The people had grown used to big things. When I first got to Chicago and saw how far along the government exhibit was, advanced as compared with other exhibits, and heard the fair people say everything would be ready the day the fair opened, I said our exhibit would be in fine shap the instant the fair was formally opened for we are consideraby more advanced than other exhibits. But, after I was there some time, I saw we would not be able to have everything in just the shape we wish it by May 1. We will have a unique exhibit, and something different rom any government exhibit yet made. It will be fully a month before it is in fine running shape and as perfect as intended to be, though it will be well worth seeing from the very first.'

A CASE OF MURDER

Row Over a Hat May Have Caused Enright's Death.

And Hints Are Thrown Out Concerning That Fact.

BARRE, Vt., April 25 .- The result of the coroner's inquest into the cause of the death of Thomas Enright, whose body vas found on the railroad track under suspicious circumstances, is a verdict rendered yesterday that death resulted from "external violence at the hands of some persons unknown."

Enright's head showed a slight contusion on the external surface, and the condition of the inside showed that a Terrible Blow had been struck. One leg was also badly damaged. Upon the conclusion of the examination Town Agent J. W. Gordon immediately wired to State Attorney S. S. Stanton of Roxbury, stating the situation and requesting that he come to Barre at

He arrived yesterday, and the preliminary hearing was begun at the office of J. W. Gordon, before Justice O. B. Boyce, all reporters being excluded from the room. Twenty witnesses were examined at the inquest. W. H. Chocran of Montpelier appeared, and proved that he was in no way connected with

The Death of Enright, and that he was not in his company Saturday evening. Chocran's statement is substantiated by several witnesses.

After searching all day Sunday for Enright's hat, it was discovered by an officer yesterday near the storehouse of S. D. Allen, within six rods of the place where Enright's body was found. H. Seigel heard Enright and an unknown nan wrangling over a hat about 10 o'clock Saturday evening near the place where the hat was found today. Further investigation shows that En right had been with a gang of rowdies durng the whole of Saturday evening.

He had for companions that evening Charles Thompson, J. Gauthier and M. J. Terinery, all of whom were intoxicated. Gauthier was taken home by Thompso who claims to have left him at 9 p. m. The others saw Thompson with Enright two

The efficer had got his man as far as the door when the occupants of the car almost to a man made a rush for the door and attempted to release the prisoner. Officer McKay assisted by two conductors and a brakeman tried to pull the fellow off the car, while the crowd on the inside pulled in the opposite direction.

Seeing that their efforts were likely to prove fruitless, the crowd on the inside made a grand rush and pushed officer and prisoner head over heels down the car steps and on to the platform of the depot. Then the hoodlums on the car jumped onto the platform and endeavored to regain the prisoner before Officer McKay could get on his feet, but "Dan" was too quick for them, and in less time than it takes to fraternal beneficiary organizations of other tell he had the twisters on the prisoner's wrists.

Wealthy and Lavish Mr. Crow.

About one coming marriage there is a flavor of romance. A bridesmaid had been bespoken for a wedding. She was taken ill before the time set, and at the last moment was replaced by Miss Louise Doelger, a pretty girl, but un-known in society. At the ceremony she met Mr. Moses Rockwell Crow, a gentleman whose name would not reveal the fact that he is the possessor of $8,-000,000 and a sort of Monte Cristo in his way. It was a case of love at first sight. Moses was captured by the fair Louise, and she, after a suitable period spent in meditation and prayer, consented to become Mrs. Crow. No one could resist so lavish an adorer. Mr. Crow lives among the swells of Great Barrington, Mass., and gives dinners and dances. He is in the habit of supplying watches set with diamonds as favors in the german. He took his fiancee out to ride the other day in the finest brougham which money could buy, drawn by a pair of priceless horses. When she admired them at the end of the drive, he told her they were hers .-New York Cor. San Francisco Argonaut.

New York, April 13.—From $500,000,-000 to $600,000,000 worth of private property is constantly housed in a few great storage warehouses in New York. This property includes every conceivable article of a movable nature, from house furniture to diamonds. The earlier storage warehouses were places in which persons temporarily vacating their homes might store furniture that they did not care to rent or sell. The modern storage warehouse is not only this, but to hundreds it is purse, jewel casket, treasure ouse and club.

The safe deposit feature of the storage ousiness is a picturesque development growing directly out of the enormous accumulation of wealth in few hands. A great trunk in the basement of one such varehouse bears upon its face the magic initials, "C. V." Its list of depositors would sound like the roll of Ward McAllister's Four Hundred. The identifier at one of the great storage houses finds that he can make sure of a person's identity if only the face be exposed from eyebrow to tip of nose. He abandoned the pretense, however, when the identifier coolly declared his readiness to take all risk of loss arising from the visitor's obtaining access to his box. Treasurer Jordan Confers With Prominent Bankers.

PROCEEDINGS ARE SECRET.

Banks Coming to the Rescue of the Government.

Treasurer Jordan and a number of prominent bank presidents. Among Mr. Jordan's visitors were Brayton Ives, president of the Western National bank; J. Edward Simmons of the Fourth National bank, Henry W. Cannon of the Chase National bank, George S. Coe of the American Exchange National bank, and ex-United States Treasurer Charles J. Canda, ex-Secretary Fairchild, Mr. Chapin of the Third National bank, Mr. Speyer of Speyer & Co., and J. A. Wright of Drexel, Morgan & Co. None of the bankers would divulge the nature of the conference, they saying that it had been agreed that any news given out must come from Treasurer Jordan. It was stated, however, by people well posted that Mr. Jordan has sub-

Definite Proposition, which was in part that the New York bankers help the government out of its dilemma. This report was strengthened by the action of the Boston Clearing House association in turning over $4,500,-

Orders were received at the sub-treasury for $850,000 additional gold for today's steamer. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. took $500,000 and Heidelbach, Eckleheimer & Co. took the remainder.

It is said that the government is considering the advisability of resuming giving gold bullion on orders for export. The practice was discontinued within the last two years because it was thought that if gold coin was handed out the demand for gold for export would be discouraged somewhat, as banking houses prefer the bullion As every one knows gold shipments have Increased and Not Decreased since the order was issued. The amount of gold bullion, mostly in bars, held by the government at the present time amounts to about $79,000,000, of which $48,000,000 is stored in the vaults of the New York assay office. A large proportion of the remainder is at the Philadelphia and San Francisco mints.

As a result of the conference a communcation will undoubtedly be addressed to Washington. It was generally supposed that an arrangement would be made by which the bankers will turn about $15,-000,000 into the treasury.

According to a Chicago special President Mitchell of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank says: "We have given the govern-ment $1,500,000 gold in the past few weeks, and will

Secretary Lamont Will Make Changes in Army and Navy Circles Shortly. WASHINGTON, April 25 .- There will be a shaking up in the army as well as in the navy after the World's fair ceremonies are over and the cabinet officers get back. Secretary Lamont has decided that a number of army officers have seen little of their regiments; that in some cases colonels who have been steadily with their troops would need introductions to some of the subordinate officers who have been nominally belonging to their regiments for years, but have been absent on special duty on one sort or another.

It has been called to the secretary's attention that out of 1589 officers 505 are for regiments. Of the absentees 198 are at and 85 on recruiting service. Special appeals doubtless will be made in many cases to the secretary, and influence brought to prevent officers being sent back to their regiments, but many of them will find the appeals unavailing.

Kickapoo Indian Sagwa Again | The Argument Made by J. Otis Ward-Proves a Blessing.

A Devoted Wife Worn Out and Breaking Down from Anxlety and Overwork, is Saved, Strengthened and Cured by This Noble Remedy of the Red Men.

The following unsolicited letter is from the wife of John C. Harrington of Brockton, Mass. Her husband was cured of dropsy by Kickapoo Indian Sagwa after Seven Physicians had Given him Up to Die and his Friends had been Summoned to his Dying Bedside.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—The demand for good cattle was active. A clearance was quickly effected at values showing no changes from last week.

Working oxen—There was a slight supply with the demand slow.

Milch cows and springers—There was a moderate supply with the demand slow. Speculators and jobbers were the only buyers. The increased demand for milk makes the drovers expect better prices for the cows.

Veal calves—The supply exceeded that of last week. There was an active demand, but owing to the large supply values were off 14 of a cent per lb. The quality was fair, though not quite up to the standard of one week ago. A few very extra choice Worcester county calves were among the offerings and sold at top prices.

Naval Review Winds Up With an Electrical Display.

THE BALL A GREAT SUCCESS.

Scenes of Splendor In the Big Madison Square Garden.

NEW YORK, April 28. - Today's programme begun at 10 o'clock with the shore parade of United States and foreign naval forces, escorted by engineers of the United States army, regiments of the National Guard and naval reserves, acting as a guard of honor to the visiting naval offi-

At 11:30 o'clock the parade passed in re view before the naval officers, the mayor and city officials, Governor Flower and others. At the termination of the parade a reception was given in the governor's room of the City Hall to the naval guests.

The United States and foreign sailors in the shore parade were escorted by the raval reserve of New York and Massachusetts. It is interesting to note that never before has there been in any country of the world a parade in which so many different nationalities have been represented as there were in the column as it passed down Broadway this morning. Under existing circumstances it could scarcely happen in any European country, and it required a special arrangement even in the United States, in consequence of the existing law that no foreign troops with arms can be landed upon our shores. The permission to do this, however, had been obtained.

Last Evening's Entertainments. NEW YORK, April 28.—The review of the warships comprising the Columbian fleet, was followed last night by a novel and unique display of the various ships'power ful search lights, which enabled the thousands of spectators who lined the banks of the North river on both the New York and New Jersey sides to take in at a glance the position of the war vessels lying at anchor.

At 8 o'clock every electrical searchlight in the fleet began sending its rays over the surface of the river, playing first on one bank, then on the other, until, at a signal from Admiral Gherardi's flagship, all the American vessels began to operate their searchlights together and concentrated them on one point, which revealed a panoramic scenes all along the line. The larger lights had the appearance of many inverted comets, and the lesser ones looked like groups of water jets playing from a fire hose. At another signal all the lights were thrown upward and described fantastic curves like rainbows in

Then the beams of the search lights (At Washington: were trained far up the Hudson, when

Rays Traveled Fully Five Miles beyond the head of the fleet. The lights were so intense and piercing that the smallest boat or craft could be seen a mile away. The search lights carried by the war vessels are the most powerful reflec-tors made, and each light carries lenses valued at $2000 each. The scene was one which those who witnessed it will long remember. During the display the opera tors showed the spectators some high art in ray projecting and in signaling.

Many of the war vessels were illuminated from stem to stern, and all along the deck and load lines and around the funnels red, white and blue lights were burned on board and before the grand searchlight display was concluded the vessels themselves were enveloped in ascending clouds of red, white and blue smoke. The Grand Ball.

The festivities of the Columbus celebration concluded with the ball at Madison Square garden last night. The president. cabinet members, governors, judges, com manders and officers of the squadrons, civic officials and citizens joined in making the occasion the most auspicious of the celebration. Not often have so many men holding high places amongst the nations come together under one roof. Every-thing was on a scale of magnificence unrivaled in the history of national social

The floral decorations clothed the dark woods of the huge amphitheater in green and white and red. Thousands of electric lights which sparkled and danced amid the foliage, made the night day, and intensified the brilliancy of the bright uniforms of the army and navy and gorgeous toilets of the ladies. The music of sentiment and patriotism floated through the grand hall in sweetest harmony.

New York outdid even her most grace-guests a reception worthy the day and the men whom she honored. The Last Touch to the decoration of the garden had been given early in the afternoon, and the hall was transformed into a veritable garden of beauty and freshness. The silver dragons guarded the main entrance, which Hawaii, there are good reasons for the bewas lined with fine boughs and palms inasparagus sprays forming the background. ruption of diplomatic affairs. A canopy of white and gold, from which floated flags of all nations, overhung the polished floor. Over the center of the garden an arch was formed by thousands of lilies of the valley. A silver cupid, which had his outspread wings studded with tiny electric lights, seemed to keep him hid expect the last of the waters at Delmonico's and the Grand hotel struck work last night. More waiters will be called out today unless their demands are him hid across the garden.

Far beyond, at the opposite end of the hall, an immense Japanese fan of electric lamps shed a radiance on the green foliage that banked up the lower tier of boxes. The pillars of the balcony were trimmed with smilax and cut flowers, and the entire half was profusely decorated with greats.

Under the big Japanese fan the raised reception dias has been erected. The words
"A New World's Welcome" extended across the rear of the amphitheater, and formed a bright greeting to those who have come from across the seas.

In front of almost every box in the lower tier an American shield draped with national flags formed a screen to which decorations in silk and plush were hung. Higher up similar draperies were caught up. They formed a pleasing combination with the evergreens and the vari-colored flags. It was 10 o'clock before the guests began to arrive. Mayor Gilroy reached the garden early, and remained in readiness to extend a hand of welcome.

The President Arrives. President Cleveland, who had spent all day amind the booming of cannon, was late in arriving. Mrs. Cleveland was not with him. She had returned to Washington, accompanied by Postmaster General and Mrs. Bissell.

About 11:15 the committee, with the president in charge, arrived at the Garden and passed just as quickly from view. The big band struck up "Hail to the Chief;" the naval reserve drew up a trifle more stiffly, and Mayor Gilroy advanced to greet the chieftain of the nation. The president was escorted to his private box. It was handsomely decorated with white and gold, upon which a delicate tracery of maiden hair ferns, roses and asparagus had been woven.

A bank of magnificent beauty roses around the edge of the balcony sloped down to an American shield and eagle, with the national flag outlined in lights.

From here the president watched for a short time the dazzling spectacle of fair women and brave men. The Duke of Veragua had already arrived and was escorted to his private box not far from the president's.

Other guests of honor were Governor Flower, Governor Bussell of Massachu-setts, members of President Cleveland's cabinet, all of whom attended with the exception of Secretary Herbert and Postmaster General Bissell; Admiral Gherardi and staff, Admiral Walker, Admiral Sir John Hopkins, K. C. B.; admiral of the Russian fleet and staff; staff officers of all the vessels in the visiting squadrons; Generals Howard and Schofield; Director General Davis of the Columbia fair; members of congress, senators, the New York board of aldermen, judges of the court of New York and the heads of New York city departments.

BOSTON, April 28.—The joint judiciary committee reported reference to next general court upon that part of the report of the special committee appointed at the last session of the legislature to consider the revision of the judicial system of the commonwealth which has not already been reported upon. This carries the real meat of the report over to next year, in-cluding the proposed abolition or consoli-dation of certain courts and the creation of new ones. J. E. Hayes moved to reconsider the re fusal of the house to pass the Boston firemen's bili over the govennor's veto. R. Sullivan of Boston moved to postpone action to Wednesday. This was debated by those who were opposed to the veto and those who would sustain it, and it was then lost by 49 yeas to 62 nays. Mr. Moriarty then opposed the reconsideration There was much sparring between the members, mostly aside from the merits of the case. The vote on the motion was yeas to 63 nays—not a majority. Ma Hayes asked for a rollcall and it was or dered. It resulted in 68 yeas to 76 nays.

Mr. Collamore moved to recommit the adverse report on the petition of the se lectmen of Scituate for authority to lay water pipes, but afterward withdrew his motion to recommit, and moved to substitute the desired bill. It was substituted without debate. Without debate on the resolve for

By agreement there was no debate on the constitutional amendments for biennial elections and for the appointment of certain officers who are now elective. As a majority vote was sufficient to advance the resolves one stage, but a twothirds vote is necessary for final passage, the opposition preferred to make the debate on the last stage only.

The house suspended its rule and admitted the bill on leave to incorporate the American Folk Lore society. No one cared to question why only $14,-500 of the $39,500 appropriated to the agricultural college should be available this year. So the amendment to the finance committee was adopted without debate and the resolve was ordered to a third reading.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Capital City is at all times beautiful, but it is never more attractive than at this season of the year. It is true that congress is not in session, and hence one of the features of interest is temporarily missing but all the other branches of the governmental service are here at work and may be seen by the tourist or the casual visitor. Of course the principal point of interest to all visitors at the capital is the White House. It is the first place visited by every American citizen who comes to the capital. The billing is picturesque in its architectural appear ance, and though old it is still as bright and cheery as it doubtless was half a century ago.

The average citizen esteems it a dis tinguished honor to grasp the hand of the chief executive, and this privilege i special contests. Today, however, Miss accorded the visiting and resident public these occasions the big east room, where all public receptions are held, is usually crowded, and nearly always, es pecially at this season of the year, the tourists constitute a majority of those in attendance. These public receptions after all, are quite perfunctory. The president enters the room at precisely ? o'clock, and taking his stand near the door is ready to receive his callers. They form in line under the direction of one of the White House ushers, and as they march by the president shakes the hand of each visitor. There isn't much enthusiasm or earnestness in the presidential grasp upon these occasions but it is sufficiently satisfactory to the average patriot, who may thenceforth pride himself upon the fact that he has shaken hands with the chief executive of the greatest nation of the earth.

Two points of great interest are the Washington monument on the banks of the Potomac, just south of the White House, and the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon, 16 miles down the river The monument, which has been called "the world's greatest cenotaph," is a plain, obeliscal shaft rising to a height of 555 feet. It towers high above the capitol and above any of the cathedral spires and monuments of Europe and the east. A spiral staircase leads to the top, and the visitor may also ascend by an elevator. Just under the capstone are four little windows from which one may obtain a birdseye view of the city and a beautiful prospect extending to the blue Virginia hills on one side and almost to the seashore on the other. The mecc of nearly every American visitor to the capital is the tomb of Washington. boat runs to Mount Vernon every day. and it nearly always carries a full com plement of patriotic tourists.

SKETCH OF GENERAL CORSE.

Noted as a Brave Soldier and Distinguished Citizen.

Boston, April 28.-General John M. Corse, the "Hero of Altoona," and expostmaster of Boston, died at his home in Winchester yesterday afternoon, after a very short illness. On Wednesday he was apparently well, but during the night he had an attack of heart failure. Three physicians were summoned and gave him all possible attention, but the attack was stronger than their skill.

His Career. General Corse comes from a Huguenot family which settled in Virginia about 100 years ago. He was born in Pittsburg, April 27, 1835, but his parents soon removed to St. Louis and afterwards to Burlington, Ia. He was educated in the pub-lic schools of Burlington, and subsequently went to West Point, N. Y., where he graduated in 1857. He resigned his posi-tion in the army and went to the Albany law school. He opened a law office in Burlington, but was not able to practice ong before the war called him to put on

Corse was one of the youngest brigadier generals in the service, but also one of the most trusted. He took his command to Memphis and over to Missionary Ridge. He led the assaulting army of General Sher-man, and had a leg broken by a shell and months' absence he returned and was given a position on General Sherman's staff as

Ceneral Corse is most widely known as the hero of Altoona. On the day that C. E. WEEKS McPherson was killed in front of Atlanta, July 22, 1864, General Logan requested the appointment of General Corse to the command of a division, and he was assigned to the command of the second division of the Sixteenth Army corps. It was while Corse commanded this division that Hood moved around in the rear of Sherman's army and attacked the supplies at Altoona. Corse was detailed with 1500 men to look after these supplies, and on arriving on the scene he found himself face to face

> A Terrible Battle Was Fought. Eight hundred of the 1500 men under General Corse were shot down, but the survivors held their ground and never showed their backs to the enemy, although immensely outnumbered. General Corse sent to Sherman for assistance, and a message came back saying that re-enforcements were on the way, and asking if he could hold the fort until they arrived, late

It was then that General Corse wrote the famous dispatch which so pleased Sherman that it may be found printed in his story The most economical, cleanly and urable Ranges ever constructed.

Outgrown.

Nay, you wrong her, my friend; she's not fickle; her love she has simply outgrown. One can read the whole matter, translating her heart by the light of one's own.

Can you bear me to talk with you frankly? There is much that my heart would say, And you know we were children together, have quarreled and "made up" in play.

And so for the sake of old friendship I venture to tell you the truth—
As plainly perhaps and as bluntly as I might in our earlier youth.

ive summers ago when you wooed her you stood on the self same plane, Face to face, heart to heart, never dreaming your souls could be parted again.

She loved you at that time entirely, in the bloom of her life's early May, And it is not her fault, I repeat it, that she does not love you today.

Nature never stands still, nor souls either. They ever go up or go down, And hers has been steadily soaring—but how has it been with your own?

She has struggled and yearned and aspiredgrown purer and wiser each year; The stars are not farther above you in you luminous atmosphere!

For she whom you crowned with fresh roses down yonder five summers ago Has learned that the first of our duties to God vision is clearer as well; Her voice has a tenderer cadence, but is pure as a silver bell.

God and his angels have talked; The white robes she wears are less white than the spirits with whom she has walked.

And you? Have you aimed at the highest? Have you, too, aspired and prayed?

Have you looked upon evil unsullied? Have you falls one summer, and became perfectly conquered it undismayed?

Have you, too, grown purer and wiser as the months and the years have rolled on? Did you meet her this morning rejoicing in the triumph of victory won?

Nay, hear me! The truth cannot harm you. When today in her presence you stood, Was the hand that you gave her as white and clear as that of her womanhood?

so measure yourself by her standard. Look back on the years that have fled, Then ask, if you need, why she tells you that the love of her girlhood is dead!

She cannot look down to her lover-her love. He must stand by her side, or above her, who would kindle its holy fires.

Now, farewell! For the sake of old friendship I have ventured to tell you the truth—
As plainly perhaps and as bluntly as I might in our earlier youth. -Julia C. R. Dorr.

Vienna's Bachelor Club.

Our Vienna correspondent is able to contradict a misleading report. It has been said that a club of men of position tion who may aspire to marriage with them. A new club has indeed come into being, but it is of quite another sort. It is a club of professed bachelors-a celibate order of dandies. It derives its origin no doubt from a well known London institution which bears the same name. But our Bachelors' club binds its members by no self denying ordinance in regard to the future, and we believe it demands not more than that candidates shall have been single at one time in their lives. That might be tolerated as a passing condition, but it is a very different thing to shut the door to repentance forever. The Viennese women are justly incensed, and some threaten to retaliate by forming another society pledged to a stern refusal of all offers from the Bachelors' club. This implies the belief that the bachelors cannot possibly keep their vows, and it proves to be in singular harmony with experience. They have broken them by anticipation. Armed Men Are Searching For 1892. Pallister and Roehl.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., April 28.—It is be-Thomas Pallister, the murderers who escaped from Sing Sing, have been in hiding for some days in the little town of Mount Washington. Two men, with smoothly shaven faces, one wearing a cap and another a hat, were seen to emerge from the barn of Henry Douglass, in the town of Mount Washington, and make their way over the hills out of sight. They were seen by Harry Hughes and William C. Weaver, who did not know that any prisoners had escaped from Sing Sing.

The men made their way toward Mount Everett, and were lost sight of as they passed into the woods just before dark. Hughes and Weaver came to Great Barrington and told their story to Deputy Sheriff L. C. Raifestanger, who thought by their description of the men that they

JUVENILE BURGLARS

Supposed to Be the Perpetrators of Recent Breaks.

THREE OF THEM ARRESTED.

A Large Quantity of Stolen Goods Found.

Boston, April 29.—Last Thursday night a vacant house at 7 Chardon street was broken into and all the lead pipe, faucets, etc., cut out and stolen, entailing a damage to the premises of $50. Yesterday Patrolman Hensey arrested Walter Gould, Dana D. Johnson and Edward J. Denning, charge of committing the break and larceny. During the last month or two numerous breaks have been made at the West End, and no clew could be obtained of the perpetrators.

While the boys were at the station under arrest, one of them carelessly dropped a word or two about their clubroom in the basement of the house at 72 Leverett street, and last night Special Officers Abbott and Gilmore, being in the vicinity of the clubcoom, thought that they would look in and see what kind of a place the boys had. The room is a small one, 6x12, and when the officers got the door open they were surprised to see its contents.

The room was fitted up as any secret organization fits their room, with a raised Altar With an Open Book in the center, and the walls were covered with unframed oil paintings nailed to the Chairs were ranged around the room and upon the altar was an open book, in front of which members undergoing ini-unframed, chairs, 20 yards of Brussels carpet, a box containing 200 false keys, lamps, lanterns, some of which were probably stolen from dangerous spots in the streets, an amateur artist's outfit, and a box containing a set of drawing instruments, bearing the name of H. M. Hink-ley. All of the property is Supposed to Be Stolen.

and drawers forced open, but the property stolen, if any, is not as yet known. The three boys under arrest were caught in the act of breaking into a house on Temple street a few nights ago, but owing to their extreme youth they were at that time released. All of these breaks can be traced directly to members of this club, and it is likely that other arrests will be made.

Rev. John W. Suter, the Episcopal rector of Winchester, will conduct a short burial service at the house in Winchester at 10 o'clock on Monday morning. Following this the remains and the funeral party will come to Boston by carriage. The ceremony will probably be at 1 o'clock, but it is not as yet decided definitely whether it will be at that hour or 3:30.

Arrangements have not been completed for the burial, but as General Corse had built a chapel at Burlington, O., where the family have a burial lot, the interment will probably be at Burlington.

Poor Collections Are General. Business at Boston is not active, and in dry goods smaller than last year; in wool and woolens, cottons, shoes and groceries, dull; in furniture fair, and in lumber, structural iron and building materials good. At Philadelphia failures have caused some timidity, and retail sales are restricted by the weather; wool and dry goods are inactive; sales of tobacco, liquor and jewelry small, but the grocery trade is slightly improved, while hardware is

Chicago reports decreased wholesale trade and collections behind hand, retail trade and work being retarded by weather and building materials below last fall's prices. The demand for money is heavy, and banks are conservative. At St. Louis jobbing trade is very good, collections free and money in greater demand.
